SEE COOLIDGE PLAN TO TRY WARREN AGAIN

Sargent Slated for Senate, Rumor.

By ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Oct. 25.—(Special.)—President Coolidge, judges of the art of politics as he is, the most astute politician who ever

sat in the White House, has none

—not even Lincoln and Roosevelt—who are called as bungling amateurs compared with the present shrewd Yankee tenant of the executive mansion.

The most sagacious of Republican politicians, those who for years have shaped the party strategy, come away from the White House looking foolish after their little talks with their party chief and murmuring confidentially: "This man has got us all beat—we're just children in arms compared with him in this political game."

Always See Politics.

So it falls out that to almost every man emanating from the White House the Republican politicians have come to attach a deep political significance and from time to time the current political gossip attributes to the President political schemes little short of Machiavellian in character.

Just now the gossip of the hour has it that there is impending a sensational shifting of the pieces on the political chess board as a result of which

Attorney General Sargent will retire and go to the senate and be succeeded by Charles Beecher Warren of Michigan if the President can induce the senate to approve a man rejected last March.

The President is reputed to have rejected the rejection of the Warren nomination more bitterly than any one imagined at the time. It was the first time in two generations that the senate has refused to acquiesce in the choice of the executive of a member of his cabinet. Those who think they know the Coolidge character would not be surprised if he were to renew the contest with the senate if the prospect of putting Warren over should appear favorable.

Dawes Spilled the Beans.

The first vote on Warren was a tie and would have been resolved in favor of confirmation of the appointment had the President, Dawes been present and had voted affirmatively. It happened that the Vice President was taking a nap at the Willard hotel at the time and, though awakened and rushed to the senate, did not reach the chamber in time to save the day for the administration.

That Gen. Dawes would have voted affirmatively and saved the day for Mr. Coolidge is not doubted, despite the fact that the administration forces, including, conspicuously, Mr. Warren, opposed the nomination of the general of Cleveland.

On the second vote the nomination was defeated by a narrow margin. The situation in the senate has changed. The opposition to Warren now has two votes. Senator Ralston

(Ind.) died and has been succeeded by a Republican. Senator Ladd

(D. C.), a radical Republican, died and the vacancy will not be filled till next year. But the biggest change in the situation has been produced by the death of the federal trade commissioner on conservative lines, that Mr. Nathan and other beet sugar executives of which Mr. Warren was accused did not violate the anti-trust laws.

Warren Confirmation.

Mr. Warren's company was under attack at the time of his nomination, by

the filing of a complaint with the

senate commission, and the feeling was spread that he ought not to be confirmed in the office of attorney general where he might be called upon to prosecute his own company.

There was to be no prosecution and the case of Mr. Warren are confident that his name were to go to the senate again the nomination would be confirmed with votes to spare.

Warren's company was under attack at the time of his nomination, by

the filing of a complaint with the

senate commission, and the feeling was

THE ROADSIDE BEGGAR OF THE FUTURE

Take Gunmen or Kill Them, Stege Orders

A new reign of terror, in which the police are aggressors and notorious gunmen the marked victims, began last night with the formation by Captain of Detectives John Stege of three squads of fearless, sharpshooting detectives with the sole duty of killing or capturing known desperados and gang leaders.

Every bad man left alive in the city, notably the gang followers of Frankie McElrath, a killer, hijacker, and thief known by police from coast to coast, are to be dealt one of three fates, according to Capt. Stege.

"You must send them to the penitentiary or gallows, you must drive them out of Chicago, or you must kill them," was the detective captain's orders to his men.

These Men are Marked.

Marked in the new offensive are the following men, with their records as given by the police:

FRANKIE McELRATH, recognized by the police as the present leader of death and violence in the beer wars.

VINCENT McELRATH, young brother of Frankie, who joined arms with the notorious gang not long ago.

JOSEPH SALTIS, the power behind the so-called house of death in the southwest side badlands, in which, according to police, more than a dozen murders have been planned.

JOHN RALPHIS, brother of Joseph, another of the gangster type risen to power since the advent of prohibition.

DANNY McFALL, former deputy sheriff, who was tried for murder of Jerry O'Connor, third of the beer war victims. McFall since then has been closely identified with the McElrath gang's operations.

RALPH SHELDON, one of the gang's sluggers, a stickup man and a beer runner.

Messrs. O'Donnell, too.

Not only the McElrath gangsters, but all other gunmen as well, are marked for police coils or guns, Capt. Stege said. In this class are Edward (Spike) O'Donnell, leader of the beer running family of O'Donnells, and his brother, Tommy, who recently was the victim of another gangster's bullet, but who was not seriously wounded.

Johnny Patton, the little mayor of Burnham, south county vice runner, likewise will find himself in custody whenever he is sighted in Chicago, Capt. Stege declared.

As for Cicero, where Jack Cuth is

But should Cusick send his shotgun artists over the border into Chicago they will get the same reception as other gangsters, he promised.

Stege Gives His Orders.

The mode of procedure, as outlined by Capt. Stege, is simple.

"Whenever you see one of these men, arrest him," he told his sharpshooters. "If he has a gun in his hand, kill him without any talk over it. And every time you catch one, don't handle him with gloves. Be tough, and let him understand that if he doesn't skip out of our city he is going to lead a sorry existence."

The three squads which are to roam the city looking for thugs are headed by Lieut. Al Wings, held by his superiors to be the most fearless, toughest policeman on the force, and by two men of similar caliber, Sergeants Al Hoffman and Al Booth. Each leader will have four men. They will be equipped with fast touring cars, and with shot guns, rifles, revolvers, tear bombs and plenty of ammunition.

In addition to these three squads, Capt. Stege ordered every one of the sixty squads under him, comprising 360 men, to be on the lookout for gunmen, and to handle them in the same manner as prescribed to Lieut. Wings's squads.

TOKIO, Oct. 25.—Another proof of the American influence in Japan was furnished recently by Miss Aiko Fukutani, daughter of a Japanese aristocrat, who visited the home of an Italian aristocrat, in the grounds of the Italian embassy, and put two bullets into him. The girl, who claims to be only 16 years old, is held on a charge of attempted murder, while her victim, Signor U. Ricci, is in the Japanese Red Cross hospital, surrounded by police questioners and reporters.

Smashes Philadelphia Joint.

About a year ago, Asher and several other agents entered a moonshine joint in Philadelphia and proceeded in their customary way to destroy fixtures and violently handle owners. A quarrel ensued in which Asher shot and killed one of the moonshiners. Asher was indicted for murder, was tried, and acquitted.

Peoria, Ill., was the next scene of Asher's operations, and his conduct was condemned by Circuit Judge T. N. Green as outrageous. The grand jury charged to investigate Asher and his partner, Max Hartig, indicted them for assault, for larceny, and for robbery.

The indictments still are pending, and the agents were to stand trial this week. The bitterness with which Peoria viewed the tactics of Asher was shown when another agent, Joseph Wahl, went to that city and was beaten by a mob. Asher and Hartig were there armed guards accompany them to Peoria for trial.

Blame American Movies.

The police authorities are seizing upon the shooting incident, the first of its kind in Japan, and credited by many to the influence of the Hollywood films, to launch a campaign to protect Japanese womanhood from present day imitations of Pierre Loti, and the papers are seizing eagerly upon this latest anti-foreign opportunity. The police have prepared a "black list" of foreign names and are threatening a roundup. This is resulting in the hasty breaking up of a number of little households tucked away in inconspicuous suburbs.

Fort Worth, Tex., Oct. 25.—(AP)—Ownership and control of the Fort Worth Record, a morning newspaper owned by William Randolph Hearst, will be taken over Oct. 31, by Amos G. #### Tennessee Conference Votes Methodist Merger

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 25.—(AP)—By a vote of 43 to 1, laymen and ministers of the central Tennessee conference of the Methodist Episcopal church (North) this afternoon affirmed their approval of the proposed unification of the Methodist Episcopal church South. The laymen voted 13 to 6, and the ministers 29 to 1.

POST-MORTEM ENDS SUSPICION OF POISONING

Hatred Roused by Hard Boiled Way.

James Leroy Asher, whose hard boiled tactics as a prohibition agent gained him the nickname "Lone Wolf," and brought him some official condemnation, died yesterday at his apartment in the St. George hotel, 1435 East 60th street.

For a time the manner of Asher's death roused the suspicion of his chief, E. C. Yellowley, prohibition administrator for Illinois, who believed Asher might have been poisoned by some of his countless enemies among booze racketeers.

Finds Clot on His Brain.

But Dr. Joseph Springer, chief coroner's physician, in a post mortem examination last night, found a clot on the dead dry sleuth's brain which proved conclusively, the physician said, that Asher had died of cerebral hemorrhage.

Upon arising yesterday morning Asher said he had a headache. His wife, Mary, sought to alleviate it, but it grew worse. Finally Asher groaned, "something has burst in my head; didn't you hear it?" Greatly alarmed, Mrs. Asher summoned the house physician, Dr. Clyde E. King, who managed to keep the dry agent alive for a little more than an hour.

Mr. Yellowley arrived soon after his assistant died. He told Dr. Springer that many enemies had sworn to kill Asher, and asked for a complete post mortem examination, indicating he would search the city for Asher's slayers if he found him a murder victim.

Faced Charges of Murder.

Asher's record as a prohibition agent was a record of opprobrium. His methods in leading raids had brought him under charges of murder, larceny, assault and robbery, not to mention malicious destruction of property. At the same time he won recognition from Mr. Yellowley and other dry officials in Washington for his effectiveness as a raider and an undercover man.

Many roles were assumed by the sleuth in obtaining evidence against liquor law violators. In Washington, D. C., where he operated three years ago, he chose to masquerade in guises ranging from a driver of an ash cart to a pompous Kentucky colonel.

During his stay in the capital, one judge, hearing Asher's cases, declared vehemently that he couldn't believe the agent under oath, and dismissed from court the prosecutions begun by Asher.

Smashes Philadelphia Joint.

U. S. ERR ON FRENCH DEBT? PIEZ TO BORAH

Believes Some Yielding Better than Delay.

Did the American commissioners in the French debt commission at Washington really err in rejecting the original terms of the French debt? Charles Piez, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, in a letter made public yesterday, said that the outstanding debt of France is "the outstanding debt of our nation."

Mr. Piez said he believed a settlement could have been reached had not the French government insisted on a mutually fair and reasonable settlement would not have the approval of their respective legislatures.

Present Analysis of Problem. "Collection of our debts to the last cent is an attractive program for the American people," Mr. Piez said. "It is a program that is as attractive as any other program for the American people."

But the United States will never go to war to collect its debts and in the past must accept what its debtors are willing to pay, he declared. Cancellation of the pre-armistice debts is out of the question, he said, because the debt of repudiating war debts is an insult to the American people.

"Prolonged postponement of debt adjustment never prompted either debtor or creditor in business adjustments. It is a waste of time, even if the debt had not been all we should have to have them?"

"In business we are every day making compromise settlements with debtors. We have instituted our bankruptcy law in order that debtors might not be hounded by creditors. Are we as nations not willing to give the fair consideration to our debtors that we give to individuals?"

DETROIT-WINDSOR BRIDGE WILL BE WORLD'S LONGEST

New York, Oct. 25.—[Special.]—Joseph A. Bower, vice president of the New York Trust company, announced today that he had submitted a plan for the proposed international bridge between Detroit and the Canadian border cities in Ontario. Mr. Bower's plan calls for a provincial guarantee of certain of the securities to be issued to finance the bridge, and this feature will go before the people of Essex county, Ontario, in the forthcoming elections, he said.

Mr. Bower said the proposed bridge would be the longest in the world, having a span of about 1,900 feet. He estimated the cost, tentatively, at $16,000,000. He said that his plan had been submitted to a Canadian committee headed by Wallace R. Campbell, vice president of the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Ltd. The committee has employed Col. C. N. Monard of Montreal, consulting engineer to the Canadian National railways, and who had charge of the engineering of the Quebec bridge.

"The only means of crossing the Detroit river at present is by ferry," said Mr. Bower's statement. "Congestion is steadily increasing and the development of the Canadian municipalities opposite Detroit which include Windsor, Walkerville, Ford, and Sandwich, has been greatly retarded."

TWO MAY EACH OTHER IN DUEL. James Fentway, 3601 South Wabash avenue, and Eileen Thomas, 1917 Taylor street, both colored, fought and killed each other early yesterday after a drinking party at 1045 Frank street. HOW $240 BECAME $1,400. A settlement was recently made on a savings and life insurance account in the Harris Trust and Savings Bank whereby a depositor's family received $1,438.78 on an account which had been carried for twenty-nine months with deposits of $8.40 per month, making a total deposit for that period of $245.60.

The account was originally opened with the intention of saving $1,000 by making small deposits in the bank each month, but before the objective was reached the depositor died. Because of the insurance feature of this plan the $1,000 that was to be saved by the depositor was paid to the depositor's family in addition to $438.78, representing the bank balance and disability benefits received through that plan.

Any one between the ages of 10 and 70 is eligible for this plan, and any amount between $1,000 and $25,000 may be accumulated by making the required monthly deposits. A postcard addressed to the Harris Trust and Savings Bank, 115 West Monroe street, requesting additional information, will be given prompt attention.—Adv.

GREECE DEPORTS PLASTIRAS; LED REVOLT IN 1922

ATHENS, Oct. 25.—[United News.]—Admiral Plastiras, who led the revolution of 1922, has been captured and deported following a battle in which the fugitive fought alone against a detachment of troops. Plastiras was arrested Sunday and already is bound for Brindisi, Italy, aboard the destroyer Leon. Premier Pangalos, who himself came to power last spring through a bloodless revolution, ordered the arrest. Plastiras made a sensational effort to escape from his hiding place in a friend's home which was surrounded by troops armed with machine guns. He escaped the cordon by jumping to the terrace of a neighboring house where he backed into a corner and opened fire, shouting threats that he would hang by the tongue the captain commanding the detachment.

"Those governing Greece will be dead tomorrow if I am injured," he cried. Finally perceiving that resistance was useless, Plastiras agreed to surrender to a general. It was Plastiras who shocked the world in 1922 by ordering the execution of six Greek statesmen by a firing squad.

BOY FOILS PALS' RANSOM PLOT AGAINST FATHER

Isadore Harshman, 11 years old, is adventurous of spirit, but when it comes to a kidnapping plot to obtain ransom from his own father that's carrying things a bit too far. So Isadore has called off his trip around the world until he finds companions who are more reasonable about financing the trip.

Isadore lives at Youngstown, O. He is the son of Benjamin Harshman, a merchant. In company with two other boys known only as Bill and Jim, Isadore slipped away from home Oct. 15 and got as far as Nogales, Ariz. There his companions suggested that a good way to obtain funds for going farther would be to make Isadore's father believe his son had been kidnapped and held for a substantial ransom. "Nothing doing," said Isadore. "Not on my dad. You can go to blazes. I'm going home." So he told the story to the Nogales police and money was provided for the return trip to Youngstown. Isadore was met at the La Salle street station yesterday by Sergeant John Carton and John Quinn.

COLLEGE YOUTHS MADE FIT BY MILITARY DRILL

Survey of U. of Illinois Shows Benefits.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

University of Illinois, Champaign-Urbana, Oct. 25.—(Special.)—What is the matter, physically, with more than 15 per cent of the American boys of college age?

The most definite answer to that question is the physical examination which boys at the University of Illinois have had to take this autumn in connection with their military training.

For collegiate military training is the surest way to take stock of the youth of the land.

It is a stern winnower of the unfit from the fit.

When the university's schools at Champaign-Urbana—as distinguished from its professional schools in Chicago—were opened last September, 3,900 students underwent physical examination for admission into the university cadet corps maintained under federal legislation as remote as the land grant act of 1862 and as recent as the national defense act of 1919.

Of the 3,900 the examiners, who were physicians, rejected 599 for these defects:

Defective eyesight.....	190
Flat feet.....	103
Underdevelopment.....	44
Heart defects.....	27
Hernia.....	26
Color blindness.....	14
Overweight.....	10
Diseased appendix.....	8
Recent Operations.....	7
Miscellaneous defects.....	170

Total number of students found physically defective..... 599

Some of these defects are capable of correction by special exercises, or by physical exercises in the university gymnasium. But three of them—flat feet, heart trouble, and color blindness—meant "out" for students so afflicted.

Many of the defective specimens were "sent to G. Huff," as the phrase is on the campus. It means five hours a week of "corrective work" in the gymnasium under the searching eyes of George A. Huff Jr., for thirty years director of physical training and athletics at the University of Illinois.

"G. Huff" fixes 'em.

Most of the men entrusted to him "G. Huff" will soon return in fit condition for military training.

Thus, you see, collegiate military training works benefits even before a student begins to take it.

It assays the youth of the land. And, once having taken over its raw material which the physicians have pronounced sound, military training begins painstakingly to work on the subtle physical disabilities of a student. The physically defective boys have either been cleared away or "sent to G. Huff." Now comes the work on the physically inept, the gauche, the loutish, and the lumbering, the boys who do not know what to do with their feet and hands, the numblers, the lax-lipped, and the roving-eyed.

Transformation Rapid.

The transformation in them is amazing—and it is rapid.

Improvement is apparent within three weeks after the freshmen are taken in hand for drilling. It is apparent even to the casual eyes of a civilian, and to the regular army officers, whose glance is expert and exacting, it is most heartening.

Three drills, which mean six hours of drilling, produce results. The freshmen begin to appear better, to handle themselves better, to wear their clothes better, and to take better care of their bodies. Not only have they a better "manner," in the sense of poise and movement, but their manners also are better. The boy who in late September, seeking Capt. Arthur S. Nevins, regular army officer on the faculty of the University of Illinois, slouched up to another regular army officer in middle life and said, "Say, where'll I find Nevins?" now reshapes the question thus:

Brush Up on Language.

"Can you direct me, sir, to Capt. Nevins?"

Is his language as amended by himself either priggish or obsequious?

The verdict may safely be left to any 12 freshmen who have had three weeks of military training.

Other contrasts:

A month ago many boys entering the military stables on the edge of the campus to make ready for their first mounted drill did not know enough to get the bits into the horses' mouths.

The very horses laughed at them, for a horse, although one of the least shrewd of domesticated animals, does instantly know whether it or its rider is master of the situation. As for the 43 enlisted men from the regular army who are assigned to this campus by the war department for stable and other duty, they could have wept.

They did not. They set their jaws firmly and patiently helped and instructed the freshmen who were fumbling with bits, bridles, saddle cloths, saddles, and stirrups.

The bungling of some was as incredible as it was pitiful. Even a civilian onlooker found it hard to excuse until he remembered that most of these lads were, as you might say, silver casters who had been glued to a cushioned seat, knowing, no doubt, a great deal about an automobile, but green as grass and twice as natural when it came to handling a horse.

Defects Disappear Rapidly.

They were pathetic objects, for is not a grown American boy who cannot handle a horse as incomplete as being as a growing American boy who has no dog to love and look after?

But they mend rapidly.

In the course of a few lessons they understand what one of the seven artillery teachers at Illinois meant when he said:

"Horseback riding is the greatest morale-builder in the artillery."

As for freshmen taking infantry drill, they in three weeks had mastered the rudiments of how to walk, had learned how to "throw their feet," as officers put it. Since babyhood many of them had been merely galumphing over the ground. There is a difference.

You mark it especially when you see on the march freshmen who have begun to respond to the training. Their gaze no longer seeks the ground. Their heads are up.

What Commander Says.

I met the present cadet colonel of the Reserve Officers' Training corps of the University of Illinois. He is Aaron McCrory, originally from Arkansas.

Consider, now, contrasts produced by military instruction spread over a longer period than the three or four weeks of shaping up raw material.

A signal example of such contrasts is a student—name not necessary—whom a regular army officer described to me as "so effeminate when he first came on this campus that he was scared of his shadow." He had no force. Other freshmen used openly to laugh at him.

In his third year he became a cadet major, competent and confident, and nobody laughed at him openly or otherwise. In fact, an inspector from the war department, who was looking over the work of the Reserve Officers' Training corps—which is what this body of student cadets is—and who saw and heard this cadet major assisting, with all the aplomb in life, regular army officers in the instruction of cadet troops, exclaimed: "Good Lord! is that man a student instructor?"

Job for Real Men.

The supreme contrast is enforced—I mean the contrast between the inept freshman and the finished product—when you see a student correctly maneuvering 3,000 troops on the parade ground, with twenty-four eagle-eyed colonels, majors, captains, and lieutenants from the regular army looking on, but scrupulously not helping. Anybody who thinks that job of forming 3,000 troops for review and parade is a job for a loose-lipped man or a mere automaton might try it.

The fact is, of course, that one blunder can throw the whole mass into confusion and shame, and I once saw a colonel out of civil life who had served with gallantry in the civil war make such a blunder while forming troops for review at a National Guard campment. His humiliation all but caused him a stroke of apoplexy.

And the point he makes brings us to the cultural and ethical aspects of the work of the R. O. T. C. It does not make potential killers, but practical conservers—a new type of "conservators of the peace," as the ancient English law phrase runs.

PAPACY CHECKS CLERGY'S DEALS WITH THE STATE

ROME, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Cardinal Gasparri, papal secretary of state, has addressed a note to bishops and cardinals declaring that all prelates of the church, including cardinals, must ask permission of the papal secretary before carrying out negotiations of any kind with official representatives of the Italian government.

Speaking in the name of the pope, the secretary asserts that the practice of independent negotiations with government officials is frequent among ecclesiastics, and "cannot further be permitted without previous agreement with the papal secretary of state."

The note is considered highly important in connection with the rapprochement between church and state, which has been aided by Mussolini's desire for closer relations.

U. S. ESTATE TAX REPEAL TO FACE ROUGH WEATHER

Split in Both Parties Seen on Immediate Action.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Washington, D. C., Oct. 25.—(Special.)—That the immediate repeal of the federal estate tax will not be approved by congress appears a certainty as a result of discussions before the house ways and means committee during the first week of its hearings on revenue law revision.

Notwithstanding the fact that the administration is in control of the committee, the expectation is that the bill, as reported to the house, will not provide for abandoning the estate tax prior to 1927. This would be fairly satisfactory to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, who, while favoring immediate repeal, suggested to the committee that the rates should at least be materially cut in 1926 and the entire tax repealed in 1927.

Favor Six Years' Delay.
Whether the house nor the senate, however, is likely to favor that early a date. The final outcome may be a gradual reduction in rates with a complete abolishment after about six years as suggested by the national committee on inheritance taxation.

Even the adoption of this plan is in doubt, as opposition on the part of agricultural interests may prove a strong enough factor to prevent any action other than a reduction in rates and the inclusion of a provision giving a larger credit against the federal tax than 35 per cent, as at present, for amounts paid in state inheritance taxes. Both parties will be split over the estate tax issue. Secretary Mellon will have the backing of members of the house and senate who follow the administration leadership on all questions, but many of the more or less independent Republicans will join with Representative Green (Rep., Ia.), chairman of the ways and means committee, in opposing repeal. Some Democrats in both houses will vote with the administration, but most of them on the ways and means committee are opposed to such action unless uniformity among the states is assured.

Little Loss in Revenue.
The estate tax is likely to be that there will be little if any loss in revenue so far as the estate tax is concerned during the next few years. The revenue from that source at present is in excess of $100,000,000 a year, but even if the levy is repealed, effective a few years hence, congress probably will take the prospective revenue law into consideration in figuring a maximum tax reduction of $200,000,000 or $250,000,000, or whatever may be agreed upon.

The one certainty thus far is that congress will reduce taxes on individual incomes in such a way as to cut off at least $140,000,000 in revenue the first year. This was Secretary Mellon's estimate on the effect of a reduction in the maximum surtaxes to 20 per cent and a slash in normal taxes from the present rates of from 2 to 6 per cent down to from 1 to 5 per cent.

One issue expected to arouse considerable partisanship is that involving in-crossed exemptions for individual taxpayers. The Democrats appear likely to present almost a solid front for a greater exemption than the present $1,000 for single persons and $2,500 for heads of families. Secretary Mellon already has declared himself against the proposals to exempt all incomes up to $5,000.

Democrats also seem likely to line up for an extension of debt retirement over the 62 year period in which foreign debts are being funded, making possible a greater immediate tax reduction.

ONLY ONE ISSUE IN TENNESSEE'S EVOLUTION LAW

Knoxville, Tenn., Oct. 25.—(AP)—Constitutionality of the Tennessee anti-evolution law will be the sole issue before the State Supreme court in its consideration of the appeal of John T. Scopes, Dayton school teacher, the court decided yesterday. The decision was made when the court sustained a motion by the state to rule out the bill of exceptions.

This action means that the record of the case, including the testimony of the late William Jennings Bryan as well as that of the scientific experts offered at the trial in Dayton, will be excluded from consideration. The case is expected to be argued at the spring term of court next year.

Scopes was convicted of teaching evolution in violation of the law and was fined $100. The case went to the higher court on appeal. At present Scopes is studying geology at the University of Chicago.

FLORIDA HAPPY HUNTING GROUND OF REALTY MEN

Thick as Flies on Sugar and as Persistent.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

West Palm, Beach, Fla., Oct. 25.—(Special.)—The farther south one travels in Florida the more crowded the cities become. The two Palm Beaches, today—two months before the real season opens—have a third more people than at the crest of the season last winter and most of them have been here all summer.

The two cities now have a population estimated at 40,000 by the chamber of commerce. Two years ago the permanent residents numbered less than 17,000 by the same estimates. The growth is encroaching on some of the wonders of the old Palm Beach—it is now planned to tear up the famous Palm way, one of the arboreal wonders of the country. The sprawling palms that lounge over the avenue in all sorts of postures are to be pulled up to make sparkling space for automobiles.

Hurried builders are working night and day shooting new hotels into the skyline around Lake Worth against the impending winter tide of visitors. Half a dozen hotel projects are under construction in the two cities, including one $7,000,000 hotel and the new White Hall, which has the million dollar home of the late H. M. Flagler as its nucleus.

Hotel Owners Not Worried.
Some owners of developments elsewhere insist the migration is going to spoil Palm Beach for the fashionables. But the hotel owners and the big business interests here are not worrying a bit. As Christmas comes and the big hotels open for the real season rates everywhere go up, almost automatically. To survive a season at the palatial hotels will still be the mark of a plucky bank account. Despite the inroads of business and commercialism, the real Palm Beachers expect the resort to maintain its standing as a winter rendezvous for fashionable society.

Winter sunshine, of course, is the great commodity. Real estate is the great industry. To the outsider just arriving, it appears as if nearly every one he meets is in the real estate game, or else is hoping to get in. Out of the 40,000 permanent residents said to be here now, it seems almost safe to say that 25,000 have a finger in the pie somewhere.

The turnover has been at a swifter rate in southern Florida for the last eighteen months or more, than anywhere else in history. The buyer today becomes the seller tomorrow.

Real Estate's Galore.
The business section is lined with real estate offices, with hand painted pictures of developments basking under electric lights. Lounge chairs make a prospect comfortable while under the spell of a high pressure salesman. The streets are crowded with hatless and coatless men, all looking for a chance to buy or sell a lot at a profit.

Most of the numerous tourists are pausing here before the final leap to Miami, the mecca of all Dixie highway tourists. O the return trip they will stay longer. The real estate activities in all the east coast communities north of Miami seem to be on the backwash, so far as the investment by tourists is concerned. The tourists do not try to flag the visitors on their dash to Miami, but concentrate upon grabbing them as they come back. This backwash is now reaching up into Georgia and has been noted as far north as Chattanooga, Tenn.

Nearly every one here is from somewhere else than Florida. The sure mark of the newcomer is the wearing of a hat and coat in the day time. Any one in a coat is like sugar for the bees. Stop and look in a real estate window. Out dashes a salesman and asks, "Are you interested?" turning on meanwhile, a thousand-watt Florida sunshine, brotherhood-of-man smile.

College Lads in Game.
They are a nice lot, patient, accommodating, seldom insistent, ready to run their legs off to satisfy a prospect. A large proportion of them are young chaps, lads just out of college. To the traveler it appears that some of these do not display much more knowledge of the land situation than he himself possesses—yet some of these have made money for customers who have bumped into them by chance.

As a matter of fact, this whole land movement and real estate activity in Florida is so stupendous, that even the experts are puzzled to analyze it. So far, it's been a bull market, and right now in some places, where lot prices have gone highest, many are beginning to wonder just where the limit lies—a good deal like the pit when wheat hits $2. Yet property is still changing hands at increasing prices, and there seems to be no slackening in the flood of money pouring in from the north.

In the two Palm Beaches, building permits this year from New Year to Oct. 1 were $15,500,000, about double last year's total. Bank deposits, which were $11,000,000 in 1923, are placed to day at about $45,000,000. In this county alone over 5,000 application blanks were filed for real estate licenses, and 1,740 were returned for actual licenses as brokers or salesmen. In addition there are thousands who trade, but need no license, the man who buys a lot and sells it to a neighbor or acquaintance, the real Florida pastime.

STATE PREPARES TO PUSH FIGHT ON SUBURBAN FARES

Col. Frank L. Smith, chairman of the Illinois commerce commission, announced that, regardless of the adverse decision of the federal court, the state commerce commission intends to continue its hearing on the Chicago and Northwestern railroad's 20 percent increase in suburban rates.

Permission to raise commutation rates was granted the North Western a few weeks ago by the interstate commerce commission while a similar plea by the railroad was pending before the state commerce commission. Last Friday three federal judges—A. B. Anderson, Adam C. Cliffe, and James H. Wilkerson—granted the North Western a temporary injunction to restrain the state commerce commission from interfering with the collection of the new suburban rates.

Despite this writ, it is the intention of the state body to complete preparation of its case for presentation in court when the hearing is called to make the injunction permanent.

CAILLAUX OPENS FIGHT AGAINST LEVY ON WEALTH

BY DON SKENE.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

(Copyright, 1925, by The Chicago Tribune.)

PARIS, Oct. 25.—In a fighting speech today, Finance Minister Joseph Caillaux denounced a capital levy as the solution for France's grave financial problems and declared war on the "feudal lords of money," who are preparing to take advantage of such a measure to gain immense fortunes.

The finance wizard's speech at the little town of Chateau du Loir before the leaders of his senatorial district, he definitely paved the way for the cabinet crisis tomorrow, which will bring the fall of the present government and the passing of the picture M. Caillaux from dominating political power into the somber confines of the senate, unless an unexpected seventh hour compromise should be reached allowing M. Caillaux to face the opening of the chamber of deputies Thursday with his program for new fiscal legislation.

Will Fight It Through.

M. Caillaux today clearly indicated this he would not quit without a fight. "I would be happy to return to the ranks, but I have undergone and will undergo many hard battles," declared M. Caillaux. "I am waiting for new crowns of thorns upon my still bleeding brow."

After pointing out that France's total internal debt was 300,000,000 francs ($16,000,000,000), M. Caillaux bitterly condemned the policies of his predecessor as "scurrying in the kingdom of illusions, borrowing and spending money like a prodigal counting on a fabulous inheritance," referring to expected payments from Germany.

Hopeful of Debt Pact.

Then, turning to the subject of inter-allied debts, M. Caillaux expressed optimism for an early settlement.

"If I could not reach a suitable accord with the United States in the first shot, I have confidence that not many months will roll by before a settlement is reached," he announced.

He then attacked the "policy of illusion," which was based on the idea that it was sufficient to ignore the debts contracted without the slightest reservation.

3 NATIONALIST MEMBERS DESERT GERMAN CABINET

BERLIN, Oct. 25.—(AP)—The Nationalist members of the German cabinet resigned today. They are Herr Schuler, minister of the interior; Dr. Von Schleicher, minister of finance; and Dr. Albert Neuhaus, minister of economics.

Neither a cabinet nor a parliamentary crisis is expected to follow the resignation of the ministers. The situation tonight indicated that Chancellor Luther will fill the vacancies with nonpartisan ministers, then appear before the reichstag for ratification of the security pact and arbitration treaties initiated at Locarno.

See Reactionaries Split.

On Friday the governing board of the German nationalist party passed a resolution that the results of the Locarno security conference were not acceptable. This was looked upon as foreshadowing the retirement of the nationalist members of the cabinet.

A meeting of the nationalist party members of the reichstag was held today, but it was attended by only about fifty of the 111 members. A resolution was unanimously adopted approving the decision of the three ministers to resign. This action by a section of the parliamentary group of the nationalists is taken as evidence that the reactionaries are anything but united on the question of accepting or rejecting the Locarno agreements.

Luther to Push Peace Plan.

Political circles close to Dr. Stresemann, the foreign minister, declare Chancellor Luther is determined to continue the peace program inaugurated at Locarno and a crisis has not arisen. The chancellor believes he is assured the necessary vote in the reichstag to ratify the pact and treaties with the aid of the three middle parties and the socialists, whose combined votes are sufficient to yield a strong majority.

UNCERTAIN AMERICA IN THE RESTLESS PHILIPPINES.

Walter Wilgus, Tribune correspondent in Manila, gave a good summary in Saturday's issue of the American position in the Philippines. It is full of trouble, which may at any time be increased.

Whether it is good for them or not, the Filipinos want their freedom. Some conservative natives may see their better interests in American control and protection against internal or tribal disorders and from foreign aggression. If so, interest temporarily overcomes instinct. It is the natural human desire to have freedom, even if the alien rule is considered beneficial.

People do not easily reconcile themselves to inferiority, particularly if they become literate. They realize that they are stigmatized as inferior if they cannot rule themselves. It hurts the pride and it causes protest. It causes revolt when this is possible.

Self-interest may govern a conservative business class and make it acquiescent, but self-interest will work the other way with the political class, particularly if the alien overhead is honest. We know that there are many elements in our own politics which do not want honesty overhead.

Francis Burton Harrison, when he was governor general, allowed the native politicians to run away with him, and that was satisfactory to them, but it created a very difficult situation for Gen. Wood when he tried to stop the excesses of the native leaders in authority which they had usurped.

The leaders in good faith and bad faith were destroying the stability of Filipino institutions, the credit, health, and politics of the islands. It is not astonishing that they were seeking wealth and advantages for themselves, but they were destroying the source of them.

When Gen. Wood tried to stop this, the leaders opposed him by appealing to the patriotism of the natives against a usurper. They had gone far beyond the intent of the Jones law, which gave them a constitutional participation in government. If the United States yielded to native political demands, it would be underwriting a failure of all it had built up; and if it tried to stop the damage, it aroused the hostility of the populace, tending possibly toward an uprising.

The antagonism of the legislature defeats the confirmation of the governor's appointments. It denies the government appropriations necessary for the health and security of the islands. It is trying to undo, for one particular, the work the government has done in segregating the lepers. Gen. Wood will not allow the native politicians to get the state money in mines, hotels, oil companies, etc.

The United States has been a good deal to blame. It has promised independence, and it has not granted it. The condition was the proved ability of the Filipinos to maintain a stable government. The natives say they can, and they want the liberty to try it. We may doubt it. How long are we to go on doubting, and what trouble will come of it?

Americans in the islands think the Jones act should be revised and given a replacement of what participation in government is allowed the population. The United States has permitted under Gov. Harrison and under Gen. Wood to have secured the fundamental law. We think the act should be put aside for one giving the Filipinos their freedom just as soon as they can organize their government. Then we'll be free of responsibilities which may bring us anything from a native uprising to a foreign war.

When the islands go, they should go without struggle to them. Possibly a European and Asiatic agreement can provide them security from aggression. The British empire would not care to have Japan take them and demand more closely to the top of Australia. We wish them well. They have been started on the right way. If they cannot keep it, that is their fault.

ADVICE TO MESSRS. MARKHAM AND DEVER.

Associations of business men and property owners in the north central and South Water street districts have passed resolutions urging the Illinois Central railroad to modify its plans for the new terminal. The associations give half a dozen reasons why the railroad and the city will both benefit from moving the terminal to Randolph street. The present tentative plan is to build the new station a few hundred feet from the site of the present one on Twelfth street.

We find the reasons for moving northward convincing. Our own interest, of course, is directly involved, and our judgment, like that of the members of the two associations, must be discounted accordingly. The site of the Tribune Tower will be worth more if there is a great railroad terminal a few blocks away. We have tried to leave that out of consideration.

One site for a terminal is better than another. It seems to us, when it comes time to ask travel for passengers arriving and departing. If this is to be the governing principle, the superiority of the Randolph street location is apparent. Most south side sites will not put the terminal at all, preferring the more convenient station at Forty-third street and beyond. The Twelfth street site is at the north end of the block, which necessitates only a small part of the traveling public. While west side sites trons must not be ignored, we believe it is certain that many of those who use the terminal will be guests of the loop hotels, business men going to or coming from offices downtown, and north side residents. If the station is at Randolph street, the time of all of these passengers will be saved and the congestion of loop streets will be lessened.

The superiority of the Randolph street site for the Illinois Central itself seems to us overwhelming. It will enable the railroad to develop the land north of Randolph street, which it now uses as a freight terminal, as a great hotel, theatrical, and shopping district, connected by underground passages with the station. The Twelfth street site offers no such opportunity for development. The station at Randolph street would make business for the hotels and theaters adjoining it; and to an even greater extent, perhaps, the hotels and theaters would make business for the railroad using the terminal. No body enjoys a ride through crowded streets to a railroad station.

THIS WILL PUT THEM ON THEIR FEET.

Our business manager is a Michigan grad, and Michigan football worries him. He aged perceptibly one afternoon last fall, and although he has flashes of encouragement this year, there is still much to be apprehended. You never can tell when some head or Dutchman will take the ball from the kickoff and make a bum out of his team. It causes loss of sleep, loss of money, and loss of pride.

There ought to be some way to restore Michigan to a championship form which could be maintained without a break for several generations, or forever, and we think there is. We have a plan which will print here, where some one is pretty sure to find it and telephone in about it.

All that is required is a man or a group of men with the vision of Cecil Rhodes. He also had a bad. They'll need that also, but it need not be so big. Our business manager is a good organizer. He can have the vision and get the money from the other fellows. They'll be glad to give it. They always are. They like it. It's the way they're approached.

Cecil Rhodes established the Rhodes scholarships, open to Americans and young men from the British dominions. The Americans who qualify must have high moral character, athletic ability, and scholarship records, with emphasis on the moral character and the ability to do 100 yards in 10 flat or better and to stroke a winning crew or something of that sort.

It has been a help to Oxford. With Americans of good mental attainments in the track teams and the crews, the Oxford boys have been running and rowing the light blue of Cambridge ragged, with some exception which we can explain. The Rhodes idea is not pressed home. There should be more Rhodes scholars, and they should be more carefully selected.

The application, we suggest, is apparent. The old grads now do the best they can now to show a good boy the school he requires, but the need of keeping slightly under cover is a hindrance. No need of that in this plan.

Consider the football team J. B. Duke could have given Trinity college if he had allowed it to remain Trinity and if he had followed Cecil Rhodes. The Duke scholarships, eleven, of $2,000, $3,000, or $4,000 each, open each year, the candidates to be selected the last Saturday in November or later when the all-state championship high school and academy teams are being picked by the experts, the all-American, etc.

Mr. Duke didn't think of it, and it's open to our business manager if he gets it and offers it to his well-to-do grad friends. It is highly moral and open to no objections. The scholarships would be awarded for high character, excellence in studies and athletics, graded all together. If a boy could get exceptional distance and accuracy with the forward pass, that would help him with his geometry. If he was good in a broken field, that would help him with his Latin; and if he was A in fundamental, of high moral character, and an exceptional punter, that would put him up from any E's he might have in history or English composition. If a boy is good in fundamental and football, that's all the state universities will ask of him soon, the way it's going in politics.

Probably it had better be made twelve scholarships, to allow for accident. Or the grads can be as prudent as they care to be. It's a critic-proof scheme. No one could say there was a taint of professionalism in it. No one does of the Rhodes scholars. And it can't fail. It would make Michigan footballers the New York Giants of the college game. They'd win about four years out of five and come second the fifth. Perhaps they'd be even better. We don't see how they could lose as often as once in five seasons. They couldn't lose at all. It would go on forever. All it needs is the endowment.

The Other Side

PROHIBITION AND OTHER LAWS.

(Whitella Beason.)
THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE reprints our recent editorial in regard to the Colvick and Otto Hund, and then comments upon it editorially, the tenor of the editorial being that prohibition, on the face of its returns, must be a failure in Kansas.

"We think Kansas has a perfect right to be as dry as Kansas was to be," says The Tribune. "That is local autonomy. Kansas was always left to believe, was really dry on the sound basis of wanting to be dry. We wonder if the interference of the federal government in a matter of local concern can be the cause of Wichita's backsliding."

We hardly think so. In fact, we remember that The Tribune a few months ago printed another editorial in which it accused Kansas of being solely responsible for the federal prohibition law. While we would not claim that much for the state, we believe Kansas people were very willing for the federal government to prohibit the traffic in liquor.

The violation of the law is a little worse in Kansas than the Volstead enactment than before, we believe, but we think it is a temporary psychological phenomenon. The cause is not easy to find. Perhaps it is because local officers slackened their efforts, feeling that they could pass the buck to federal enforcement. Perhaps it is because of the psychology of suggestion. A drinking was springing up because of the widespread discussion of the federal law. Or perhaps it was due to a slump that came as a reaction from the idealistic strappings of the war period. We do not know. But the public conscience is working, and the result will be a return at least to the degree of dryness found in 1918. When federal enforcement is properly geared with local enforcement the state at large will rejoice.

What we do not understand is why The Tribune applies one philosophy to one law and another to all other laws. The prohibitory law in Kansas is not violated any more than the laws against banditry and murder in Chicago and other cities that could be named. Would The Tribune advocate a repeal of any of these other laws because they were being flagrantly violated? We think not. The question is whether a nation, state, or community shall maintain its own power of government or hand it over to outsiders.

DOGS AS DISEASE CARRIERS.

IT SHOULD be emphasized again the importance of quarantining pet animals during the presence of an infectious disease in a household.

Under the present regime we keep children from school, but we allow the infected dog to play with the children of the neighborhood and thus carry disease from that household.

These statements are taken from a discussion by Drs. Joannides and Riley before the American Medical association. The subject under discussion was "The Dog as a Carrier of Disease to Man."

Dogs are the principal means of spreading hydrophobia. They have some tuberculous and occasionally, though not often, infect human beings with that disease. Dogs infect men with various forms of worms and other intestinal parasites.

Of these, very much the most important is echinococcus. More than 350 cases of echinococcus infection of human beings, many of them fatal, have been reported in the United States. The eye and the liver are the principal locations of echinococcus disease.

Certain skin diseases are spread from dogs to men. Dog fleas may carry disease from dogs to men.

Dr. Batschler agreed with the ecologists that dogs could spread such diseases as diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles and smallpox. Dr. Smyth told of a lady in Philadelphia whose pet dog developed hydrophobia. She turned him out of her house. Whereupon, the sick dog wandered around, infecting dogs and people with rabies.

Dr. Hickson warned against the promiscuous importation of dogs from the far corners of the earth. These new dogs were liable to bring in new diseases and new parasites.

Dr. Oscar Dowling advocated an animal dog tax of two dollars. Of this money one dollar would go to a fund to be used to vaccinate all dogs against rabies; the balance to go to another fund to be used for giving Pasteur treatments to bitten people and in treating ordinary dog bites. (In order to control hydrophobia, dogs should be made reportable and the health department should furnish treatment.)

In closing, Dr. Joannides told of the rules in relation to dogs in other countries. In most countries every imported dog is held in quarantine for six months.

WIFE IS PROPERTY OWNER.

Chicago, Oct. 25.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—If a woman with real estate married a man who has nothing, does he automatically become a joint owner with her in this real estate?

No, but if he survives her without having joined in a conveyance he will be entitled to a one-third life interest by way of dower.

JOINT POSSESSIONS.

Oak Park, Ill., Oct. 18.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—A married couple own real estate in joint tenancy in common, but in joint tenancy. They have their money in the bank in "joint bank account"; also all securities in the safety deposit vault in "joint account."

Is it necessary for one, or both, to make a will?

Yes, in case of death of either, what part of the real estate or money and securities can a child claim?

F. J. K.
We advise making a will to take care of the possibility that at the time of death the assets may be owned which would not otherwise go to the survivor. If the instrument expressly provides for joint tenancy, the surviving joint tenant will take to the exclusion of the heirs or devisees of the deceased.

Look at the mournful exhibit of history: Georges Jacques Danton, born 1758, Georges Danton, the terror of the French revolution, who set up the revolutionary tribunal that sent people by the hundred to the guillotine. Georges had a fine time, until one day the tribunal thought it would be a good joke to send Georges himself to the guillotine. As he was dragged out and thrown into the tumbril the tribunal shouted in unison, "Good-by, Georges, laff that off," thereby inventing a phrase which has continued to this day. After all, as Oct. 26 makes us think of the horrible Georges getting it in the neck from his own guillotine, one can coax up a little smile today after all. Ah ha, Monsieur Danton! Et vous aussi! RHL: Of course it's most winter. Doceans mentioned winter in his other day. That settles it.

And So You'll Never Know.
R. H. L.: One evening, not so long ago, I was out with—ah—you know, one of those r-h. m. We sat in his Rolls Royce, after returning from a long ride. It was a marvelous night, the moonlight filtered through the trees and spread over the lawn below, and the air was softer and warmer than it was wont to be in October. His arm lay carefully across the back of the seat. "Now," I thought, "is my chance to settle this question, once and for all time." So I moved just a fraction of an inch closer and turned my great pools of light toward him, a beautiful second there was silence, and then—

See 'o. "Be yourself, dearie, I read the Line, too." The funeral was private.

WE INVADDED the East and West, The South invaded us and wiped us all over the lot. Red Grange was licked. Knox was trounced by Beloit, Wis., and Mabel Reinecke says to come across with some back income tax. Blue Monday? We'll tell the pop-eyed world.

She Says She N-H-O-H.
R. H. L.: How in the world did Russel Ross forget Art Johnson, the sheik of the awning factory?

Get an Air-Filled Mattress.
R. H. L.: What am I going to do? I can't use my radio on Line Nite or any other nite. You see, the man who sold me the set said to use my bedspring for an aerial; and now, after having had to work like the devil to haul it to the roof, the wife says she won't sleep up there any more, if we never use the dab thing. What to do?

Oh, We're So Sorry!
R. H. L.: In order to save you any worry, and also that you may know where to send the flowers, I am using the hospital stationery. There will be nothing for publication until he comes out.

LYRIC.
O where is now the laughing
That graced the years of old,
When days were made for quaffing
Sweet wine from cups of gold?

Our years were void of care;
Our hearts were void of care;
From youthtime's horn of plenty
Poured gifts and tokens fair.

But where the mirth and laughter
That charmed those days of old—
Perhaps some kind hereafter
May raise them from the mold!

T. C. C.
Edna Storms About Rain.
RHL: In your city last week. Saw "Rain" within and without. Dreary and somewhat sooty, yet stimulating when one faces it. When Jeanne Exalts at the close said, "I feel sorry for every body in the world, there was something so desolately deep, world-old, elementally material in voice and manner that one was conscious of a genuine thrill—the eternal gesture of disillusion, perhaps, mercifully mingled with Madonna-like compassion.

TOMORROW is Navy Day! First we scrap the navy and then we have a day in honor of a greater navy. Now Dien, c'est magnifique! R. H. L.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, The Tribune.

THE AUTOMOBILE SLAUGHTER.
Chicago, Oct. 14.—I do not know how to express my appreciation for the most wonderful publicity and the manner in which you have featured the publicity pertaining to the automobile slaughter. The death toll would, without doubt, be far greater if The Tribune remained silent on this subject or had not featured it so vividly to the public.

Words cannot express the wonderful effect it is having upon those drivers who are mentally fit to drive but would, no doubt, become careless to a certain degree if it were not for the way you feature this awful evil.

Your cartoon of Wednesday, Oct. 14, is very impressive, and there is no doubt in my mind that this cartoon will have its effect to a greater degree than some of your past cartoons, which were very, very good.

OSCAR WOLFF, Corner.

THE TUBES, THE METRO AND THE "L."
Chicago, Oct. 25.—Now that Senators Barr, Dailley, Carlson, Wright, Hughes et al. have returned from an inspection of the tubes of London, Glasgow, Dublin, Paris, Berlin, Geneva, Naples, Rome, as well as the gondolas of Venice, in search of information to solve the Chicago traction problem, it might be well for them to spend a few days riding on the local street cars.

They report that "the European lines make a sincere effort to give good service, but that the cars are smaller and the fares are higher."

They should not delay in the matter of trying out Chicago's street car lines, for while the foreign impressions are fresh comparisons can be made to the best advantage.

They will find nothing slow and antiquated about Chicago's surface and elevated systems. They will learn, too, that the cars are not small, that there are a lot of them and of the most modern type; that they are well lighted and comfortably heated, run on frequent schedules, and that the companies are not only "making a sincere effort to give good service," but, according to traveled observers, are giving the best service in this or any other country.

R. R. JONES.

FROM DONALD DAY.
Rigs, Latvia, Sept. 18.—The picture of the Tribune Tower arrived. It will be hanging on the wall of the office. It certainly does justice to the Tower and is a real work of art. I'm sure that each time we look at this picture we will become prouder of the fact we are representing The Tribune over here.

It also makes me homesick for Chicago. I showed the picture around town and paid a special call on the press bureau of the local soviet legation to show it to them, explaining that this was capitalism, and asked how many years it would take before they began to build new buildings in Russia. The Bolsheviks laughed and said, "That as soon as America would loan the soviet some of its surplus millions." DONALD DAY, Baltic and Russian Correspondent.

COLUMBUS' TELESCOPE.
Moline, Ill., Oct. 23.—Please tell Mr. McCutcheon that the telescope is currently believed to have been invented about 1612, a little too late for Columbus to have had one aboard the Santa Maria.

Also, last Saturday, on the book page, Edwin Balmer says, "As we all know, Gen. Wolfe read Gray's Elegy in camp before Quebec." My recollection of the story is that Wolfe recited the poem or NOT THIS TOMB.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—I would like to lay my hands on the man who wrote the letter "Naval Catastrophes" and signed thereunder my name—Julius S. Todd, Major, U. S. M. D., retired. Furthermore, I am not major, never was (thanks just the same), and I am not retired. The only thing in his article that smacks of truthfulness is: "It appears that the navy is a reasonably safe place for the men when the army and marines are busy fighting our battles."

J. S. T.

A NAVY MAN REPLIES.
Lockport, Ill., Oct. 23.—The navy is willing to shoulder its mistakes and it doesn't need any sarcasm from J. S. Todd in doing so. It was not "a safe place for the men when the army and marines were fighting our battles" and the feasible major allegies, and its retired officers are not working themselves into a frenzy at this juncture, casting shade on their brothers in arms. What does J. S. Todd know about the profession of disaster, anyhow? Has he any suggestions to offer instead of unpleasant innuendo?

CHICAGO LEADING CITY OF WORLD IN BAILEY VIEW

Chicago, with the basic fundamentals of prosperity as the test, may claim to be the first city of the world, according to Prof. William L. Bailey, Northwestern university sociologist and population expert. He has just finished a scaling of American cities according to achievement, and has submitted his report to the National Real Estate board.

form the soundest basis of prosperity, he explained.

Ranker Higher Than New York.

"Chicago stands below New York in some respects largely because she has not gone so far in the matter of public ownership of utilities, and this itself is a debatable merit or demerit," he said. "Chicago outranks New York on as many items as it is outranked, and the items on which Chicago stands higher are more fundamental."

"This city, we find, has not yet caught up on school problems, and in relative church membership and library circulation Chicago does not keep the pace set in other matters. But in cost of living, home ownership, population married, and death rates, which every one will admit are vital to a community's welfare and represent a sound foundation on which to develop a more complete cultural life, Chicago ranks higher than New York."

And Far Above Philadelphia.

Philadelphia is placed a good deal lower than Chicago, but the older city has caught up on her public works, such as park space, pavements, public properties, and fire losses, according to Prof. Bailey.

"In wage rates, infant mortality, and related vital conditions Chicago outranks all other cities of comparable size," he said. "She can well claim to be the first city in the world on these counts."

Most of Chicago's problems, he declared, are in the nature of growing pains.

Chile's Election Quiet; Claim Victory for Lorrain

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 25.—Reports from Santiago, Chile, say that with the exception of a few minor disturbances, the presidential elections in Chile passed off quietly. While supporters of Figueroa Larraín claim victory by an overwhelming majority, Dr. Salas' followers contend the issue is in doubt.

STATE HOSPITAL INMATE A SUICIDE.

Dixon, Ill., Oct. 25.—(AP)—Dependent on the loss of $16, arriving of many weeks, William F. Barker, 60, patient at the Dixon State hospital, drowned himself in Rock river late Friday.

BUNDESEN PUTS OUT BOOKLET ON CARE OF BABIES

In lieu of the usual weekly bulletin of the department of health, Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, health commissioner, yesterday sent out the first copies of a booklet devoted to instruction and information concerning the care of infants from birth to two years of age, entitled "Our Babies." The first issue of the booklet numbers 250,000 copies.

Cost of Printing Donated.

Compiled during the last fifteen months, with the necessity in mind of presenting the information in a form easily understood by all classes of mothers, the booklet has been printed at a cost of nearly $50,000, but without expense to the taxpayers, through donations received from various interested individuals.

Copies of the booklet will be presented to the mother with the birth certificate of every child born in Chicago during the year—60,000 approximately.

Thousands of Copies to Schools.

Twelve thousand teachers in the public schools and 75,000 school children taking the home sanitation courses in the eighth grades and junior high schools will receive copies, and 40,000 more will be mailed to subscribers of the health department's mailing list, including health officers in all parts of the country. No charge is made for the booklet in any instance.

Loots Shop in Crowded London Street of $150,000

LONDON, Oct. 25.—(AP)—While noon crowds yesterday filled Bond street, the center of London's fashionable shopping district, a young man using a mallet broke the window of a leading jeweler's shop and escaped with a tray containing rings valued at $30,000 (about $150,000).

In addition to important deeds dated only one hundred years after the Norman Conquest, royal manuscripts with great seals, the letters and tradesmen's bills of Sir Nicholas Bacon and his illustrious son afford amusing commentary on life of the times. Trousseau bills for his granddaughters, Mistress "Doll" and Mistress "Jemimah", give enlightenment on prices of satins and shoes.

Extremely beautiful and varied fur treatments distinguish the finest of this season's Coats whether you choose a French model such as the one pictured right center above or one of the many equally lovely American designs in the Section.

50,000 READY TO FLEE FROM TURK ARMY IN MOSUL

Christians Fearful of New Massacres.

BY GEORGE SELDFS.
(Copyright, 1925, By The Chicago Tribune.)

MOSUL, Mesopotamia, Oct. 25.—Fifty thousand Christians in Mosul, the Nineveh of Biblical times, are preparing to flee to the southward should the Turkish army, which has been attacking the city since Sept. 27, reach the city. Almost none will remain in the zone because it is believed that a life will be worth just one bullet if the British withdraw.

The latest massacres have convinced the Assyrian, Nestorian, and Chaldean Christians, the remnants of once great races who are now divided among the Greek Orthodox, Roman Catholic, and Protestant churches, that they can find safety only where there is British rule, because the league of nations' promises as well as Turkish treaties will be only scraps of paper once local Turkish officials decide upon atrocities or exterminations.

5,000 Flee from Turks.
About 5,000 Assyrian Christians in the neighborhood of Zakho, the same number of Assyrians as in Chicago, have fled since the world war. They belong to the Protestant church. They fought the Turks during the war and were rescued by a British flying column. They are now joining the Iraqi army, making the best soldiers in the Orient, according to British officers.

Among their spiritual leaders are Dr. Edward MacDowell and wife. Mrs. MacDowell is a former Chicago school teacher. The MacDowells are conducting the American mission at Mosul. Dr. MacDowell believes that every Christian will leave Mosul if the Turks march in.

The atrocities have not stopped since the Lausanne treaty. Dr. MacDowell believes with the British authorities that even if the Ankara government were civilized methods in dealing with Christian minorities, local governors on all parts of the frontier will be absolutely out of hand, making Ankara powerless. The frontier officers and local governors are notorious for their hatred of Christians and they are known to have instigated the terrorism.

When the league of nations' commission arrives Dr. MacDowell, as well as the British authorities, believe that many natives interviewed will declare in favor of Turkey, in as much as the British mandate expires in 1932 and if it is renewed the population fears that the Turks will eventually hold the territory and revenge themselves on any one speaking against the Turkish occupation now. The presence of 40,000 troops on the Turkish border makes honest opinion regarding the plebiscite impossible.

Frightened by universal public opinion following the exposure of the present day massacres, Turkish officials, apparently on the orders of Ankara, are frantically endeavoring to restore a status quo on the frontier. Thousands of refugees from Alki and other deportation camps in the interior have been ordered to return to their native villages. Officers and soldiers have been instructed not to kill old men and women while marching back, and not to violate rights.

Refugees Refuse to March.
Reports reaching the British zone, however, say that the terrorism of the previous massacres is making the refugees mutinous and they refuse to march, fearing the murders will continue. In the meanwhile, four villages from which people were being deported and which were surrounded by Turkish troops for a fortnight, being pillaged, were suddenly left free. The inhabitants, fearing a renewal of the deportations and not believing that Ankara's orders were sufficiently strong to protect them, are beginning to flee to the British zone, complicating the British food and shelter problem.

Great Britain is paying eight cents daily to the refugees as well as providing tents. There is a famine, owing to a crop shortage. Several speculators cornered the wheat market. The British, by a clever trick foiled this move. They bought a small quantity of wheat in the zone and sold it cheaply, announcing that a big supply was coming. The speculators, alarmed, sold their products cheaply.

Eye witness reports of atrocities continue daily. Refugees at Alki say that twenty or thirty are dying daily from lack of food and from privations. It is reported that a Catholic priest at Murga who was taken as a hostage has been killed.

An example of the British confidence that the Turkish war talk is bluff is seen in the recent departure of 100 airmen and forty-five officers for England, after they had completed two years of service. They were to be replaced by the same number of new, inexperienced men.

Beside the British native levies, the Iraqi native army of 8,000 is available for the defense of the country.

KIMBALL PIANOS

A VERY obvious inference is to be drawn from the fact that more KIMBALL Pianos have been sold on this continent than pianos of any other make.

But do you fully realize all that this fact implies?

Greater deliberation and care are exercised in choosing a piano than in choosing anything else that forms part of the home environment. Merit—perfections that endure—are deciding factors. The KIMBALL has stood the test of time. The final choice, therefore, as indicated by sales made throughout America and in lands beyond the seas, has been the KIMBALL oftener than any other piano.

It is a notable expression of public confidence. Music lovers know that every piano bearing the KIMBALL name—large and small grands, reproducing grands, uprights or players—reflects the ideals that this house has maintained for over half a century.

Yet KIMBALL prices are impressively moderate, due to practical factory management. When you come for a demonstration, you will see the prices plainly marked on each instrument. And ask us about the KIMBALL "One-Price Policy"—which protects you in every purchase.

LAX MORALS OF BOYS LAID BY 'Y' TO GIRLS, LIQUOR

Present Day Society Is Blamed for Vice.

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Oct. 25.—(Special)—The modern girl, with her alluring dress and her standards of propriety, was declared to be one of the dominant influences which must be dealt with by young men.

The statements were made at the international convention of the Y. M. C. A. at the Willard hotel. The 1,200 delegates were divided into five sections and each section discussed the following question:

"Character destroying faith destroying influence that beset the young men and boys today."

"Vote Dry to Live Wet."

Other influences than those of sex wrought out in the discussions were the breakdown of parental discipline, the bad example of the father who would dry and lived wet, the preaching in the church of so many dogmas which were not true and the lack of religious training among the young.

One of those who defended the younger generation was William B. Murray of Plainfield, N. J. "The young people of today are no different than the young people of my day, except that the young people of today are more open in their practice," Mr. Murray said. "We used to have petting parties, but we tried to keep the fact from others. Today petting is more open, but it is just the same as it always was."

Mr. Allen of Seattle said the standards in our high schools in regard to dancing are demoralizing.

Dance Is Social Center.

"It doesn't make any difference whether our fathers did petting when they were young men or whether they did not; it is all a question of what is right," said Mr. Allen.

My son said to me some time ago, 'Dad, are you going to let sister learn to dance?' I said, 'No.' 'If you don't it will be a little hell for her,' he replied. I learned then the social life of the high school centered in the dance. As long as this condition continues young men will be dragged down."

One delegate related the experience of a young man who said his father had bought liquor, invited in a party to drink it, and after the party was over the young man had to drive home one of the guests, who was so drunk he couldn't walk.

"What chance has such a young man," the delegate asked, "to learn the principle of obedience to law? Like this father, there are too many men who vote dry and drink wet."

The wrong theological attitude of certain churches was criticized as having an injurious influence on young men.

Blame Church, Also.

"When the church teaches so many things that are not so," one delegate said, "young men are confused in their faith. Religion is not simply a matter of going to church, reading the Bible and praying. It is not summed up simply in not drinking, gambling or in other vices. It is a right attitude towards life. Out of 400 boys who were questioned it was found that the church as such was not taken into account as governing their lives. The influence they confessed to heeding were the examples of older men, what their companions said and the standards of society."

NEXT 50 YEARS A WORLD CRISIS, DR. FRANK SAYS

The next fifty years will prove to be a critical period in the history of the world and will witness the inevitable rise or the inevitable disintegration of western civilization, Dr. Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, told an audience yesterday afternoon at Orchestra hall.

The next half-century will determine, he declared, whether western civilization will enter on the preliminary stages of a new dark age, or whether through a new spiritual leadership, as a combination of scientific and religious thought, it will witness a new renaissance, and inaugurate new political, economic, and spiritual feasts.

Science and religion, Dr. Frank stated, have been opposing each other much after the manner of two prize-fighters in a ring, hitting below the belt. The greatest task before the world today is to reconcile these two mighty forces.

"I believe that the raw materials for a new renaissance lie all about us, waiting for spiritual leadership to touch them into life. It is men we need—men with creative minds, with the wit, the wisdom and the technique to extract the real values from these materials."

How Can Manufacturers Meet BIG Competition?

Mergers, consolidations and highly capitalized groups may well cause many smaller firms to wonder how they can survive. Yet, the possibilities of well managed small firms were never more promising. This is because the manufacturer with a good article, properly priced, can always take his case to the public—sell the public on his product.

Advertising is a market builder of great flexibility; the city, the state, the urban or country trade can all be reached readily and at reasonable cost.

A small manufacturer with a good product can draw inspiration from the history of some of our largest and most successful clients who began with us in a small way. Our book, "Four Square Advertising," will prove of great value to manufacturers who are investigating advertising. We send it free.

KREIBEL HOPES TO CLEAR DEBT OF $2,000,000

Plans for the payment of dollar for dollar by Fred L. Kreibel to 10,000 creditors of Kreibel & Co., which failed three years ago with an indebtedness of $2,000,000, were revealed Saturday, together with the details of a battle by the former broker to "come back" and pay in full despite a three years' sentence to the federal prison at Leavenworth which is hanging over his head.

Kreibel, in a letter to the stockholders of the defunct company, says he has been for some time connected with a real estate concern doing an extensive business in Florida lands. He says he has deposited with the Union Bank of Chicago 2,500 shares of the stock of this company, with provision that it is to be redeemed at the rate of $1,000 a share, so that ultimately, he expects $2,500,000 will have been raised and paid off to his creditors.

Sentenced; Appeal Pending.

After Kreibel & Co. failed Kreibel was tried for using the mails to defraud. He was convicted and the Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed his sentence of three years. He now has an appeal for a review of the case pending before the United States Supreme court.

It was Attorney Robert N. Golding, counsel for Kreibel, who disclosed the former investment broker's battle to come back and pay.

"He lived in Winnetka when he failed," Mr. Golding said. "He lives there yet with his wife and five children. His children go to school there and he has the same friends he has always had. It seems to show that his friends and neighbors have had confidence in him. A further expression of this lies in the fact that he has had to borrow about $50,000 from his friends since his trouble and they have generously loaned it to him."

Success in Real Estate.

According to the lawyer, Mr. Kreibel has for some time been connected with the real estate concern which just now promises success and an opportunity to pay his debts 100 cents on the dollar.

The attorney said Kreibel had had a hard fight to get back into business after his conviction in the federal court. At last the four men now associated with him lifted the mortgage off some land in which Mrs. Kreibel held an equity and he then entered the real estate concern in which he is now a partner.

Kreibel had a friend, Mr. Golding continued, in the late John I. Beggs of Milwaukee, who died recently leaving an estate of about $50,000,000.

"Mr. Beggs," Golding continued, "knew all about Mr. Kreibel, his former company, his failure and his conviction. Still the Milwaukee millionaire believed in Kreibel. He told Kreibel if any proposition that was worth while got into his hands which required financing he would furnish the money."

"This Florida proposition came along. There were 27,000 acres involved. Of this, 25,000 were agricultural lands. The rest lay along the Dixie highway and the railroad and made a site for a home community.

"Now about 9,000 acres of the farm land and better than $1,000,000 worth of the homesteads have been sold and the business is going good."

Letter to Creditors.

Kreibel's letter to his former customers, after explaining his plan to pay them back, concludes:

"You will understand that all the work I have done—the organization that has been built up—everything, has been with the knowledge that I may not be able to give my continued personal attention to the conduct of this business. My appeal has been denied by the Circuit Court of Appeals. I am now petitioning the Supreme court in Washington to hear my case. If the result is favorable, I can throw myself into the completion of the work which we have started in Florida with a lighter heart and greater energy than has hitherto been possible. If unfavorable, the organization which I have built up will, I hope, continue to function efficiently without my personal presence, and pay your claim in full.

"If such does not prove to be the case, I will, when I have paid my debt to society, take up again the task of paying to you whatever still remains unpaid."

Beauty Like This Is Every Woman's Dower

Today, as centuries ago, a woman's heritage is charm. Perfection and symmetry of form, so heralded in Grecian and Oriental history, can be gained here in Chicago today. All you need do is apply a common-sense discovery which immediately places you on the road to health and renewed youth. Whether you are stout or thin; whether some part of the body—neck, arms, bust, waist, abdomen, hips, thighs, calves or ankles—needs to be developed or reduced, you can accomplish it quickly and easily. A few minutes a day of personal direction under the Charlie White Muscle Sense System will literally mold you anew. Beauty lies within yourself, oftentimes unrevealed. Why not acknowledge this fact, letting some authorized specialist direct you? Many women seeking youth and renewed vigor are willing to try every advertised method or so-called "cure." Often these systems are harmful—employing medicine, starvation diet or gymnastic apparatus. Do not place yourself in the hands of an unauthorized director. It is in your own keeping whether or not beauty shall be attained or utterly destroyed forever.

Women Exclusively

Charlie White Defies Years: Youth Returns

Charlie White is the only man in the business whose knowledge of scientific body culture has been gained through twenty years of practical experience. He is confident that a trial treatment will convince you of the efficacy of his plan. Write, phone or call for a personal appointment. This is the system you need.

Individual treatment is paramount in obtaining real results; no two women require the same exercises. Therefore, after a study of each individual, Charlie White, himself, directs her work in movements from which she will derive the greatest benefit. The exercise over, a woman attendant gives proper care—bath and scientific massage.

CANADA BALLOTS THIS WEEK FOR POLICY ON U. S.

High Tariff Against Scientific Control.

BY GEORGE SMITH.

(Copyright, 1925, By The Chicago Tribune.)

Toronto, Oct. 25.—Canada's future policy, particularly in its relation to the United States, constitutes the primary issue upon which three major and one minor parties—Liberal,

Conservative, Progressive, and Labor are contending for power in the Dominion. Election day is next Thursday, Oct. 29.

The King government, which has carried on for four years with a nominal majority of one over the combined forces of the Conservatives,

Progressives, Laborites, and independents, is appealing to the country on undertakings to create an expert tariff and taxation advisory board, reform of the Canadian senate, and coordination—but not the merging—of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National railways.

While there are varying shades of local belief in the rank and file of all parties, generally speaking the Liberal party stands for tariff for revenue and moderate protection, the Conservatives for high tariff, and the Progressives for low tariff or free trade. Out of 235 seats in the last parliament, the Liberals held 117, Conservatives 60, Progressives 55, and Labor 3.

Want Tariff Against U. S.

Led by Arthur Meighen, former

Canadian premier, the Conservative party is clamoring for a Canadian tariff at least as high as the Fordney tariff, to protect Canadian manufacturers from American competition. Because of the flood of United States

made manufactured goods into Canada,

Mr. Meighen says, thousands of Canadian factories have been forced to close within the last few years—a statement condemned as untrue by the Liberals—and scores of thousands of Canadian workmen compelled to cross to the United States for a livelihood.

In the manufacturing field it is principally the woolen and textile industries which are seeking protection from American competition, but the support of the Canadian farmer—historically a low tariff voter—for a high

Canadian tariff is being solicited on a promise held out by the Conservatives of a tariff against American farm products. Prohibitive duties are suggested to him upon New England potatoes, which compete in the home market with the Canadian mar-tinine product; also upon American dairy products and upon fruit and garden truck, which, on the Pacific coast, are a source of severe competition to the British Columbia farmer.

U. S. Prosperity.

Comparisons of Canada's existing

"business depression" with the continuous "prosperity" in the United States, is the most prolific campaign argument just now on Conservative platforms. The Liberals, in self-defence, are being forced to submit comparisons calculated to refute that view.

Outstanding in this connection has been the acceptance of cabinet office

into the campaign of Vincent Massey, president of the big Massey-Harris industry here, of which concern the Sawyer-Massey company is a subsidary. His retort has been that the United States isn't enjoying all the prosperity that has been attributed to it by the Conservatives and in its depression period it had even more unemployment than at present exists in Canada.

While the Conservatives claim to be sweeping the country with their policy of high protection from American industries, Premier King and his Liberal forces are equally emphatic that the government will be returned with a good working majority. The Progressives, whose main strength is on the western prairies, are conceded

little or no chance to form a government.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—(AP)—The British authorities have been aroused by the statement attributed to Brig. Gen. J. V.

be false. If the authenticity of his statement is established, it is understood an inquiry will be started by the war office.

2,400 MILES OF RAILROADS QU... SINCE NOV. 1,

Natural Resources
Principal Reason

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, Oct. 25.—(AP)—The abandonment of approximately 120 miles of railroad since Nov. 1, 1925, has not been caused by a shortage of the railroad business, motor vehicle competition, the exhaustion of natural resources or any other of the reasons usually advanced. This is the conclusion reached by Henry R. Trumbower, economist of the United States bureau of economic affairs, in a report on the relation of the railroad industry to highway transportation.

"In 1918," Mr. Trumbower says, "there were 244,837 miles of railroad in the United States. By 1924, there had been a decrease of 10,000 miles, or 4.1 per cent. At the end of 1925, there were 234,837 miles, or 3,815 miles less than the peak mileage. During the year period there was some 1,000 miles of new road built."

120 Lines Discontinued.

In the period from Nov. 1, 1924, to May 1, 1925, the interstate commerce commission authorized the abandonment of 120 lines and branches having an aggregate mileage of 2,400 miles. These were abandoned in every section except Delaware, Idaho, Maryland, Missouri, Nebraska, Utah.

"It is clear that a majority of the lines discontinued are of the 'feeder' type, or lines which serve as branches into main lines. In some cases railroads built branches or branch lines into territories or territories to tap mineral resources and in that case sought to secure traffic from raw materials or products of resources in their finished or finished state."

"The natural resources exhausted and traffic of other sorts having to develop, these lines and branches have been left without sufficient business to warrant continuation. It is the simple explanation of the policy of the abandonment."

Why They Dropped Out.

Abandonment of 78 of the 120 lines, according to Mr. Trumbower, was caused by exhaustion of natural resources; competition of other modes of transportation; and the fact that the lines were of minor importance. The abandonment of 42 of the lines, and miscellaneous causes, resulted for the abandonment of the lines.

The lines abandoned on account of motor vehicle competition had an aggregate mileage of 104 miles, exhaustion of natural resources

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels. There is no need of having a yellow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about the natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by keeping up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 50c.

Postum

one of the world's largest advertisers uses more lineage in The Chicago Tribune than in any other publication on earth

Thirty years ago C. W. Post started the Postum Cereal Company in "The Little White Barn" at Battle Creek. Today, the new Postum Building at 47th and Park Avenue, New York, stands an impressive symbol of a leader in the field of cereals.

Such success eliminates any argument concerning the policies the company has followed. They must be correct. Whether you sell food products, face powder or washing machines, you may find ways to profit from this experience.

Postum is especially qualified to speak with authority on markets, mediums and merchandising. The company is one of the world's largest advertisers.

Intensive Selling and Concentrated Advertising Win Success

The mediums used include newspapers, national magazines and billboards. A conspicuous factor in building this success has been recognition that the United States is made up of several individual markets.

To reap the full harvest from the most fertile fields, intensive sales efforts are backed up by Postum with concentrated newspaper advertising.

As with many other manufacturers, the richest of these zone markets has proved to be The Chicago Territory—Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, and Wisconsin.

Year after year, Postum has concentrated large appropriations in this territory. Last year 124,516 lines of advertising were used in Chicago newspapers to promote the sale of Post Toasties, Post's Bran Flakes, Instant Postum, Postum Cereal, Grape Nuts.

Of this lineage, the morning papers received 42% more than the evening papers. The Chicago Tribune led the other morning paper by 68%.

Now, The Tribune receives a larger share of the appropriation than any other newspaper in the country. It is carrying, in fact, more agate lines of Postum advertising than any other magazine or newspaper on earth.

Yet as recently as 1920 The Tribune received only a small share of the Chicago appropriation. Prior to that, it was omitted entirely. Following that, its portion has increased yearly.

Results have won for The Tribune this overwhelming lead in lineage.

Although the Chicago Territory occupies only one-twelfth of the nation's area, it produced in 1924 more than one-fifth of Postum's total sales.

This means that The Chicago Territory consumes every week more than a million packages of Post Health Products.

A Method, a Market and a Medium Worth Your Consideration

Postum lineage figures are convincing proof that the company recognizes The Chicago Tribune as the most powerful medium in the great Chicago territory.

Isn't such evidence of a rich and responsive market worth investigating? Doesn't this testimony to the selling power of its dominant advertising medium mean something to you?

Can't you, too, get greater returns from newspaper advertising—and particularly from newspaper advertising that is read in the morning, before instead of after the daily marketing tour? A Tribune man will welcome the opportunity to talk it over with you.

needed impression on the fans who witnessed the struggle.

Indiana showed it is getting ready for the homecoming struggle with Northwestern at Evanston Saturday by trouncing Miami, 25 to 9. Since its defeat by Michigan, the Hoosiers have shown improvement, holding Syracuse to 14 points and showing vast improvement in the Miami contest.

In the Missouri Valley conference, Missouri kept up its winning streak by defeating Kansas Argus, 3 to 0. Drake won from Grinnell, 7 to 4, and Ames was victor over Washington of St. Louis, 28 to 13. In the other game of note, Nebraska won from Kansas, 14 to 0.

While the Pennsylvania-Chicago game was one of the leading struggles in the east, the Dartmouth-Harvard meeting was not overlooked. It was the first real test of the season, the Green eleven of Harvard and it showed the football world it is a team of wonderful offensive and defensive power. Dartmouth simply smothered the Crimson, 32 to 9. It was Harvard's second defeat of the year. Holy Cross beating the Cambridge team a week before.

Princeton fell before the strong Colgate eleven, 9 to 0, while Yale was victor over Brown, 20 to 7. Pittsburgh had to extend itself to win from Wallis Steffen's Carnegie Tech eleven, 12 to 0 while other games in the section resulted as expected.

On the Pacific coast, Stanford won from Oregon 26 to 10, while California was victor over Oregon, 28 to 0. Southern California ran over and around Arizona, 54 to 0.

In the south, Alabama strengthened its claims to the title by defeating Georgia Tech, 7 to 0, while Georgia, another contender for honors, won from Vanderbilt, 28 to 7.

MARON BACK HURT

Bert McKinney, Maroon back, is the only crippled member of the University of Chicago football team, which went yesterday to Washington, D. C., after being defeated, 7 to 0, by Pennsylvania in Philadelphia Saturday. McKinney suffered an injured leg in the last half of the Maroon-Penn battle. He probably will be out of drill for at least a fortnight. Gene Francis, fullback, who was unable to play Saturday because of an injury, will be in shape for battle when Chicago meets Purdue.

PURPLE BATTERED

Coach Glenn Thielathwaite will give the Purple gridiron squad a good shaking up before the Indiana game Saturday.

The battering given the Purple by Tulane resulted in many injuries. Mathews, end, will be out for some time with an injured knee; Fisher, end, has a wrenched ankle, and both Seidel and Bovik are bruised badly. Bruce, tackle, will be out for some time due to a deep cut over one eye, and Lorry is hurt but will be able to play Saturday. White, who was knocked out, has recovered and should have no trouble holding down his half.

There is no assurance that Moon Baker will be able to play this week.

Chicago Blues, 6 to 0

Reelfoot Lake Goal of Birds Heading South

The Mississippi river, age old water highway and migration route for waterfowl, has been a busy flyway during the last week as the birds have been coming down from the northland. From Tennessee comes the latest feed box dope on the mallard rush along the Mississippi as the greenheads have been piling into Reelfoot lake, that historic body of water which was formed more than a century ago by an earthquake.

Duck hunters who make an annual pilgrimage to Reelfoot to enjoy the waterfowl shooting there, are hearing good news about their shooting hole as exceptionally fine feeding conditions and an early migration of birds assure some dandy sport this autumn.

In the first place, low water has brought about ideal growing conditions for the aquatic plants which provide the mallards with three squares a day. One enthusiastic Reelfoot hunter says that there never has been such an abundance of the kind of food that the ducks like and for days the mallards have been coming in to land heavily in the grub pile. The duck season in Tennessee does not open until Nov. 1, so that the greenheads are able to dine undisturbed for quite a period.

It has been several years since the mallards have arrived at Reelfoot lake so early. As a rule, the big birds are not around in numbers by Nov. 1. A very early start to the north country has hurried up the waterfowl.

FLORIDA TOURIST FATTENS BANK ROLL EN ROUTE

Expenses at Tent
Camps Small.

BY J. L. JENKINS.

Fort Myers, Fla., Oct. 25.—[Special.]—It may seem a trifle anomalous to find a gold lined pocket of the gleaming Atlantic, where money flows as fast as the gulf stream, to talk of the economies in Florida. It is, nevertheless, that a large portion of the mobile world, moving so rapidly and restlessly into the far south, is working out a living budget that is as low as $7 a week for each unit of the family and works on schedules which actually make it possible to live on the family savings account.

This economic fable is made possible by a combination of ideal tourist spots scattered over the state and an insatiable demand for labor of every kind. The family rides ahead until money runs out and then pitches camp in one of the well organized grounds at a cost of 50 cents a day. The head of the family, however, is eager to pay $40 a week for carpenters and like high scales for their labor.

Tourists Crowd Camps.
Sometimes he stays a week in one of the camps before moving on, sometimes he lingers a year or more, taking over a comfortable cottage which he rents for $4 to $6 a week. His food costs him about 40 per cent more than would in northern Michigan or Wisconsin, but he has all of the storied Florida to balance his ledger.

At the midway camp near Melbourne we found 75 cottages filled with the type of leisurely tourist family that remains in the 11 acre site for over a year by tourist tents. The campers carried license plates from practically every state, and some of them had made the camp their home since it opened two years ago.

Four such camps are operated under the rules of the State Tourist Association. Ocean front developments, which might be spent profitably by southern tourist in enjoying Palm Beach even in this pre-season setting, are over ocean camps alone is worth effort in negotiating the poor road network in Georgia and Tennessee along the Dixie highway from Cocoa West Palm Beach, the motorist gets first real taste of the gigantic developments now in full swing. He is the climax of southern beauty playground expenditure in this famous resort.

MOON MULLINS—HIS FACE IS HIS FORTUNE

DEMPSEY TO SEE WILLS-JOHNSON BATTLE TONIGHT

Champ Wants to Study Challenger's Style.

New York, Oct. 25.—[Special.]—Jack Dempsey is expected to arrive tomorrow morning for the purpose of viewing the twelve round bout between Harry Wills, New Orleans Negro challenger for the heavyweight title, and Floyd Johnson, Iowa heavyweight, which is to be held by the National Sportsman's club in the First Regiment armory, Newark, tomorrow night.

Announcement to this effect was made today by N. R. Mesnick, assistant manager of the Hotel Alhambra, where Dempsey has made reservations. Dempsey will arrive with his trainer, view the fight, and leave Tuesday for Mexico City, where he is to start an exhibition tour.

Obviously, Dempsey is coming for the purpose of familiarizing himself with Wills' style. Possibly that Niles, Mich., signing may have something serious about it, instead of being purely humorous, and in that case Dempsey undoubtedly wants to prepare himself against the day. Boxing followers are united, however, in predicting that the champion will not see Wills extended in the ring at Newark. The bout is scheduled for twelve rounds, but it should end in two or three rounds with Johnson, with all due respect to his combined team. Johnson is in a reclining position on the ring floor.

Wills will enter the ring a prohibitive favorite over the stout-hearted Johnson. The Negro heavyweight will enjoy every physical advantage over his rival and every boxing advantage as well, save, possibly, gameness and courage under fire. In this alone Johnson is at least the equal of Wills. Johnson has only the most remote chance of victory and for this reason it is not expected that the bout will attract the army of fans ordinarily attracted to a heavyweight bout.

Mastodon, King of Strawberries, Subject of Yarns

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Alluring yarns have been brought out of Michigan's and Indiana's fruit belts this fall about the new strawberry variety, Mastodon, the elephant of the berry family. Mastodon was captured in the berry jungle by a farmer named Vores, near Peru, Ind., according to B. W. Keith, a grower at Sawyer, Mich., who has six acres of the new variety.

Mastodon is an everbearer, resulting from a cross between the Superba and a late ripening spring variety. After making the cross, Vores found that he had something worth while and sent it a serial for eight years. The serial finally came out when Vores says and sold a few of the plants to his friends. The berry is now regarded as a wonder among home and commercial berry growers.

Berries of the Mastodon family, measuring 6 inches in circumference, were produced this year in the Keith patch. Nine of them covered the top of a quart size berry box and weighed two ounces and eight placed end to end measured eight ounces.

It is this large size and the great productivity that make the Mastodon stand out away ahead of other everbearers, growers say. Mastodon is a showy berry on the market stand, being red in color, and stands in the front row so far as flavor is concerned.

RING PRINCIPALS ON EDGE FOR GO TOMORROW NIGHT

Crowd Sees Flowers and Wiggins Train.

Tiger Flowers, the colored middleweight of Atlanta, Ga., and Chuck Wiggins of Indianapolis, who meet in the windup of the boxing show at East Chicago tomorrow night, completed hard training yesterday at the Mullen gymnasium.

Wiggins boxed six rounds with three sparring partners, while Flowers pulled on the leathers for four sessions. Their workouts attracted a large crowd, and this is an indication the bout will be well attended tomorrow night.

Southpaw Against Right-hander.
Opinion is equally divided over the result. Some pick the colored fighter to win because of his cleverness. He is a southpaw, hard to hit, and he can sock with his left hand. Others believe Wiggins will be the victor because he can hit with his right hand. Chuck's admirers claim he will nail Flowers early in the battle and slow him up so he will be easy to beat for the remainder of the bout.

After yesterday's workouts both boxers stepped on the scales and neither weighed over 170 pounds.

Prelims Insure Action.

The eight round semi-windup, between Tommy Herman of the Board of Trade and Chuck Feldman of Toledo, is also creating interest, while the preliminaries insure an evening of action. The boxers will engage in light gymnasium workouts this afternoon.

The New York Times.

New York, Oct. 25.—[Special.]—A week has elapsed since the ominous Saturday break on the stock exchange, promptly followed by Monday's check to the decline. On Monday also was a demonstration of strength in a group of stocks which had not participated in the speculative orgy of the week before.

Wall Street itself still is in the dark, however, as to exactly what has happened. Theories have not been had to get, but none of them belongs in any more serious category than conjecture. That the pool manipulators, trying to realize on speculative holdings, had lost their grip on the market a week ago, and that the mob of outsiders had taken advantage of the situation, is a possibility. That strong financial interests, not tied up in the recent industrial speculation, had been intending to stage a railway market and did not wish the ground to be cut from under it, is possible. So is the suggestion that large holders of certain industrial shares had appealed to their banking friends to save the opportunity of distribution.

But What Started Unloading?

It is no clearer now, however, than it was last Monday when three such quantities of stocks on Saturday's market were bought as Monday's. The suggestion that strong financial interests, not tied up in the recent industrial speculation, had been intending to stage a railway market and did not wish the ground to be cut from under it, is possible. So is the suggestion that large holders of certain industrial shares had appealed to their banking friends to save the opportunity of distribution.

Any theory, even of the fantastic sort, however, gets a hearing when the facts are unknown.

What visibly has happened, however, is that the outside public's speculation, which had reached the stage of unbridled excess week before last, had been cut under some sort of control. An effort has been made to continue on the basis of the present undoubtedly high prices, what Wall Street calls an orderly advance.

Another Kind of Inflation.

The state of the money market thus far has made this possible, and to the extent that an economically unwarranted expansion of loans on speculative collateral may be called inflation. The stock exchange movement might be described as an "inflation market." Probably the process has been facilitated by the absence of the previously expected need of new loan issues, especially in the case of such governmental borrowings as have been shut off by our state department's policy in the matter of the war debts.

Such incidents as the Dodge Motors sale and subsequent flotation must have helped it. It certainly has been helped by the manifest appetite of the public for speculation, based on the sight of rising prices rather than on any calculation of intrinsic values.

Resembles Florida Boom.

In that respect, the stock exchange of the last month might have been dealing in Miami lots as well as in shares of industrial specialties. In earlier months of the war as of 1919 and 1920 and 1921, the real meaning of the situation was not apparent until six months or more had elapsed. We doubtless shall have to wait on this occasion. But the interesting contrast with those other episodes remains—that in every one of these other seasons, what was called a nationwide boom in trade was in full swing along with the stock speculation, and that prices for steel and wheat and dry goods simultaneously were rushing upward. On the present occasion those phenomena have been conspicuously absent.

Autumn Flood of Gold.

The outflow of gold from the Bank of England, which had risen at the beginning of last week, had been checked, and had had two particularly interesting aspects—its immediate bearing on the bank's present experiment in resumption of gold payments and its indication of the autumn demand for gold from London as compared with the usual autumn requirements in pre-war days.

Comparisons with years prior to 1914 will give results which may cause some surprise. The bank's loss of $17,000,000 in the three weeks ended last Wednesday actually was the greatest recorded in any three-week period before the war; it has been exceeded only by $19,000,000 taken out in the first week of August, 1914, when the motive was panic hoarding and not export.

The total gold withdrawal, however, when the present outward movement began last August, $17,000,000, has not nearly exceeded the maximum outflow in the autumn of pre-war years. That there was matched or slightly exceeded the bank's $11,000,000 loss of gold in 1914, and the $11,000,000 of 1912. "Maximum" net decrease in the bank's gold reserves exceeded $10,000,000 in 1912, 1913, 1914, 1915, and 1916, and was never less than $5,000,000 in any of the ten years before the war.

DOES NATIONS' MARK TREND OF BUSINESS WORLD?

BY HARPER LEECH.

Can modern business survive the proposed internationalism of leagues, world courts and such?

Is the road to Geneva the road to an international plutocracy, which will smother individual enterprise, obliterate regional industrialism and eventually pass into the dry rot of the Roman empire—the fate of the world's first super state ruled by rich men?

Modern capitalism may be essentially nationalistic. Its roots may tap the soil of the tribal instincts, as well as the surface of personal ambition. Its enemies of the Marxist school have been inconsistent on this point. They speak of international capitalism in one breath, and then declare that the struggle of national groups of capitalists for markets is the cause of wars.

Many, if not most, economists and financial writers have been led by the incidental developments of international trade and financing to consider capitalism essentially international, and to regard the nationalist impulses and policies as antagonistic to its highest development. Much may be said in support of that view. But at this time certain historical coincidences should be recalled.

Capitalism and modern nationalism may not be Siamese twins, but they were certainly of a simultaneous birth. The economic order of free enterprise began to replace the feudal economic order, as the spirit of nationalism in Europe revived, after long submergence under the rule of internationally-minded aristocrats and clergy. Capitalism, nationalism and the romantic school of literature arose about the same time, and each profoundly influenced the other. Whether either can survive the other remains to be seen. The decadence of one may signify the drying up of the springs which have watered them all.

Capitalism in America certainly seems to be the fruition of the masculine, tribal and disciplinary instincts of militant breeds. It has been a species of empire making—a conquest by industry.

American business never has known the servility of the wandering trader who cringed to feudal lord, of the low caste Japanese trafficking by grace of shogun, of Levantine peddler bribing Byzantine tyrant or Turkish pasha for the privilege of commerce. For its spirit one must go to the tradition of the fighting traders of the Italian republics or the better burghers of the Hanse towns.

Can it accommodate its ethical and pragmatic standards, its masterful psychology—to the atmosphere of European politician steeped in the vestigial arrogance of the landed aristocrat, or the surviving stert of mental decay of socialists?

Can American business stand for free enterprise here, and yet favor enmeshing America in systems and schemes rooted in socialist psychology?

American labor has warned the denationalizers of labor off the grass. How about business?

RESUME HEARINGS ON POTTER PLAN FOR RAIL POOLS

A series of hearings conducted by the Interstate Commerce commission to determine the feasibility of the Potter plan of pooling rail revenues will be resumed in Chicago today. Chairman Atchison of the commission will preside. The hearings are also for the purpose of determining whether the roads shall be granted higher rates.

Following the sessions here, at which all witnesses who appeared at the former sessions several weeks ago are to be cross-examined, further sessions are to be opened at St. Paul on Nov. 9; Denver, Nov. 16; San Francisco, Nov. 23; Dallas, Dec. 2, and a final hearing at Kansas City on Dec. 14.

Testimony from scores of shippers from every section of the middle west will be given at the last mentioned hearing.

The Potter plan, in effect, provides that roads earning net revenue in excess of 5% per cent shall use a percentage of the surplus in aiding such roads as fall below this figure. At previous hearings here the plan was sponsored by H. E. Bryam, co-receiver for the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad, and by Charles Evan Hughes, chief counsel for the road's receivers. Mr. Hughes, it is announced, will not appear at the coming week's sessions, but will argue the case in Washington before the full commission when the hearings have been concluded.

HIGH BRITONS BACK MOVE FOR RIFF FREEDOM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] LONDON, Oct. 25.—The pro-Riff sympathies in London came out in the open last night—thence entirely unofficial—when the "Riff committee," which is composed of a group of fairly prominent English soldiers, said others announced that they would hold a public meeting in London Friday to declare in favor of Riff independence.

The committee is determined to demand that the French and Spanish governments allow medical relief to reach Abd-el Krim, the Riff leader. The committee also announces that it will submit to the public a resolution asking an immediate armistice and arbitration of the differences between the French and Spaniards and the Moroccans.

The pro-Riff movement in London is supported by well-known men: Commander Kenworthy, Sir Charles Hobhouse, Capt. R. Gordon Canning, and R. B. Cunningham Graham.

New York, Oct. 25.—(AP)—Piling of the will of the late Edward Byron Lowther, managing editor of Town Topics, revealed yesterday that no relatives could be found during a two months' search. Lowther was born in Quincy, Ill., in 1858. Mrs. Lowther died three days after her husband.

FINANCIAL NOTES

New financing of $12,500,000 for the Inland Steel company, the second largest producer of steel in the Chicago district, has been arranged by Kuhn, Loeb & Co., who will offer today this amount of twenty year 5% per cent debentures at 98 1/2 to yield 5% per cent. Proceeds from the sale will be used to reimburse the company for expenditures of $5,000,000 for improvements, and to provide additional funds to complete electrification of the company's main plant at Indiana Harbor.

The fight of opposing banking groups over the reorganization of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway was further complicated when it was announced that a new committee to act for both common and preferred stockholders was being formed by Ernest Baile to intervene in the proceedings before the federal court in Chicago.

Stockholders of the Midland Cream corporation soon will be asked to approve an increase in the company's common stock from 150,000 to 175,000 shares, after which rights to subscribe to 25,000 shares will be offered to present holders at a price of $35 a share. Proceeds will be used for expansion.

Increasing industrial activity in the territory served by subsidiaries of the Midland Cream company is shown in the report of sales of gas by the Northern Indiana Gas & Electric company, 324,071,500 cubic feet in August compared with 277,274,700 cubic feet in August last year, an increase of 16.88 per cent.

Net earnings of $51,750,750 during the period from Oct. 10, 1924, to Sept. 28, 1925, are shown by the 29 national banks of New York City in a tabulation published in the Financial Age. The total capital of these banks now amounts to $181,050,000 and the surplus and undivided profits to $333,500,000. Dividends of $31,872,730 were paid to shareholders, the actual net earnings on the average capital employed being equal to 23.3 per cent.

Carl F. Egge Resigns as Air Mail Superintendent

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 25.—(AP)—Carl F. Egge, superintendent of the air mail service, today resigned that post to take an extended leave of absence. He will be succeeded by E. A. ## This Bank has loaned Millions of Dollars on Character and Income

THE MORRIS PLAN was designed that the honorable American citizen of moderate means who does what he says he will do, can pledge his character as security for money borrowed for constructive purposes. The Morris Plan borrower gives to his bank a note signed by himself and two of his friends—it is a deposit of honor—a pledge of faith.

That is what we mean when we say that this bank has loaned millions of dollars on character.

And The Morris Plan borrower promises to pay, and he can and does pay, because the repayment plan of The Morris Plan is geared down to meet his earning ability. Instead of a big payment at any one time, weekly, semi-monthly or monthly installments are made out of income.

That is what we mean when we say that this bank has loaned millions of dollars on income.

Thus character and income, like stocks, bonds and mortgages, are security for loans on The Morris Plan, and they are the best collateral on earth.

There is no mystery about loaning money on such an intangible quality—something that you cannot touch, weigh, or measure by the yard, for The Morris Plan Banks have already loaned over $500,000,000 to 2,500,000 American citizens in every walk of life, for every reason under the sun—for the advancement and happiness of as many American homes.

This bank has a capital of $1,000,000.00. We will loan a part of it to you on your character and income.

Mail Order Department of the Chicago Title & Trust Company

Realizing how even such a vitally important matter as a title insurance policy is sometimes delayed because of the difficulty of a personal call, this Company has organized a department to take care of title insurance orders entirely by mail!

This saves time, delay and all personal attendance. Simply send a letter, and an order or application blank will be mailed to you. Meanwhile the work proceeds.

Every order is safely, accurately and promptly handled without the least delay or trouble to you.

$12,500,000 Inland Steel Company Twenty-Year 5 1/2% Debenture Gold Bonds

Due November 1, 1945

Coupon bonds of $1,000 denomination registrable as to principal. Interest payable May 1 and November 1.

Redeemable as a whole, but not in part, at option of the Company, upon not less than six weeks' previous notice, at 103% and accrued interest on any interest date on or before November 1, 1935; at 102% and accrued interest on any interest date thereafter on or before November 1, 1940; and at 101% and accrued interest on any interest date thereafter prior to maturity.

Semi-annual sinking fund, beginning May 1, 1926, of 1% of the maximum principal amount of Bonds at any time outstanding, is to be applied to purchase of Bonds, if obtainable, at their principal amount or less, or if Bonds are not so obtainable within five months after each payment date, may be used for capital expenditures for which no additional securities are issued, at the rate of 75% of such expenditures.

For further information regarding the Company and this issue of Bonds, reference is made to a letter dated October 24, 1925, received from the Company, copies of which may be obtained from the undersigned and from which the following is quoted:

PURPOSE OF ISSUE

The purpose of the issue of these bonds is to reimburse the Company for about $5,000,000 heretofore expended for expansions, additions and other capital purposes and to provide additional funds to complete the Company's present program, including the installation of Blast Furnace No. 4 which will increase the daily production of pig iron to about 2,600 tons, the construction of 74 additional Koppers By-Product Coke Ovens and the complete electrification of the Indiana Harbor plant. The additional earnings from the new facilities and the savings created by the electrification of the main plant are conservatively estimated at not less than $1,500,000 per annum.

BUSINESS AND PROPERTY

The business of the Inland Steel Company was organized in 1893 and is the result of a continuous development over a period of thirty-two years. The Company is the second largest producer of steel in the Chicago district, having an annual ingot capacity of 1,600,000 tons. Its business is the manufacture and sale of a widely diversified line of steel products. The Company is well integrated in regard to its supplies of such raw materials as iron ore and coal. Its ore requirements are met entirely through its ownership (direct or through subsidiary companies) in ore leases covering the nine mines on the Mesaba and Cuyuna Ranges in Minnesota and Gogebic Range in Michigan, which with coal properties in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Illinois, insure an adequate supply for a long period of time. The Company owns over six hundred acres of land at Indiana Harbor, Indiana, with frontages on the southern shore of Lake Michigan and the Government ship canal, where its main plant is located. The principal units, when the present program is completed, will include four blast furnaces, two hundred and four Koppers by-product ovens with complete blast refinery, twenty-six open hearth furnaces, blooming mills, sheet bar mills, rail mill, bar mills, sheet mills, plate and structural mills.

EARNINGS

The net earnings of the Company after charging depreciation, depletion, amortization and interest (but before deducting income taxes and interest on bonds since retired), averaged for the ten years, 1915 to 1924 inclusive, $7,294,685 per annum and for the year 1924 were $6,492,493. These average earnings are equal to 10.61 times and the 1924 earnings to 9.44 times the annual interest charges on the $12,500,000 Debenture Bonds presently to be outstanding. The earnings for the first nine months of the current year, after all charges as above stated, amounted to $4,854,995, or at the annual rate of 7.88 times the interest on the $12,500,000 Debenture Bonds. These earnings do not include the additional earnings and savings expected to result from the expenditure of the proceeds of these Bonds.

ASSETS

The net tangible assets, after deducting all reserves and liabilities other than this issue, are over $76,000,000, equal to more than $6.00 for each $1,000 Debenture Bond. Current Assets alone, not including $7,000,000 reserved for new construction, amount to more than $25,500,000, equal to about six times current liabilities. The book value of the properties of the Company represents actual expenditures less depreciation actually charged out of earnings, and is much below actual value. The Company has no notes payable and has had no banking indebtedness for the past seventeen years. There is no outstanding funded debt other than $425,000 of Bonds maturing serially to 1928, not redeemable before maturity.

The outstanding Stock of the Company, consisting of 100,000 shares of Preferred Stock and 1,182,799 shares of Common Stock, has a present market value of over $60,000,000.

DESCRIPTION OF ISSUE

The Twenty-Year 5 1/2% Debenture Gold Bonds will be the direct obligations of the Company and will be issued under an Indenture to First Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago, as Trustee, which will provide among other things that no mortgage or other lien (other than purchase money mortgages or pre-existing mortgages on after acquired property), shall be created upon any of the properties or assets of the Company or of any subsidiary company, as defined in the indenture, whether now owned or hereafter acquired, nor shall any such properties or assets be pledged, unless all the Debenture Bonds at the time outstanding are secured by such mortgage, pledge or other lien equally and ratably with all other bonds or obligations secured thereby, all as provided in the Indenture. Current assets may, however, be pledged to secure indebtedness incurred in the ordinary course of business maturing not more than one year after the creation thereof.

THE UNDERSIGNED WILL RECEIVE SUBSCRIPTIONS FOR THE ABOVE BONDS, SUBJECT TO ALLOTMENT, AT 98 1/2 AND ACCRUED INTEREST TO DATE OF DELIVERY, TO YIELD 5 1/2% TO MATURITY.

The undersigned reserve the right to close the subscription at any time without notice, to reject any application, to allot a smaller amount than applied for, and to make allotments in their uncontrolled discretion.

The above bonds are offered if, when and as issued and received by the undersigned and subject to the approval of their counsel. Temporary bonds will be delivered against payment in New York funds for bonds allotted, which temporary bonds will be exchangeable for definitive bonds when prepared.

Application will be made in due course to list these bonds on the New York Stock Exchange.

New York, October 26, 1925.

Even an old investor can learn new tricks

"I'm sixty-four years old, too old to learn new tricks. Why should I change my whole investment policy now?"

This investor's needs changed with his changing age. The stocks he held gave him a satisfactory income, but had not been selected to minimize inheritance taxes. His estate faced a tremendous loss in tax assessments at his death.

William R. Compton Company's business is the selling of sound securities, not the charitable giving of investment advice. Yet the Compton sales policy has been proved right by thirty-eight years of national success. It is this: to use every effort to improve your investment position, for as you profit, your purchase will surely follow.

"That Mousetrap Theory"

RALPH WALDO EMERSON observed that if your mousetrap is good enough, you can live most anywhere, sit back in your chair and tell people where the line forms.

This theory may work out, but good business men do not take a chance on it. In the bond business, the character of your issues alone won't build up business unless a trained sales personnel is building with it.

This firm is adding from time to time experienced bond salesmen to help handle an ever-widening distribution of its issues. The attractiveness of our compensation arrangement is proved by the fact that all our salesmen have increased their incomes under it.

Investigation of our proposition can be made in confidence through Mr. Haskell, Albert Frank & Co., Advertising Agency, 134 South La Salle Street, or directly through

MR SKILL AND RECORD SPEED
WIN FOR YAN

Schneider Cup Stay
Here a Year.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 24.—(Special.)—Flying his seaplane with rare skill at a speed never before attained in these machines, Lieut. "Jimmy" Doolittle of the United States army flew over the finish line in the Schneider cup race this afternoon and gained another leg on the trophy for this country. His speed for the 227 miles course was 232.57 miles an hour, which is 55.19 miles an hour faster than this race was ever before won. It is forty-three miles an hour faster than the time made unofficially over this course last year.

Doolittle was never pressed by the other two American seaplanes. The same type were making only 180 miles an hour when they were forced out by engine trouble and the English entry, the Gloster-Napier, flown by Capt. Hubert Broad, finished second with a speed of 199.16 miles an hour.

Italian Entry Far Behind. The Italian entry, a Macchi-Curmona seaplane, flown by Lieut. Giovanni Briganti, made only 168.44 miles an hour and was still flying long after the American and British planes finished.

One more victory by America in the cup permanently for this country, although six races had been flown before the United States entered the contest. The last two victories were won by Doolittle.

The flying of Doolittle was made all the more remarkable by the fact that he had regaled speed until he had regained speed. He lost only five miles an hour on turns and cut the corners so skilfully that experts estimated that he had fifteen miles less than did the English and Italian planes. Their turns were very wide, adding materially to the distance they had to fly and was some of their precious supply of time.

Sweeps by Judges' Heads. When Doolittle banked around the pylon he held his plane so lightly that he passed over the heads of those on the judges' stand so that the wind from his propeller swept them. He could not have been more than thirty feet above them and a black shining whirlwind crashed with a roar that was terrifying. Just how fast this plane would go was a short straightaway course. Doolittle refused to predict, but he was nearly five miles an hour faster than the British; superior over a straight three-mile course. The supermarine ship that crashed here Friday in which England hoped to win the race and clinch her hold on the cup. She made 228 miles an hour on the short course, which is 4.5 miles faster than the winner's speed today.

Every Mark Is Broken. It is probable if the weather were tomorrow that flights made over a three kilometer course today broke every record from 3 to 200 kilometers. The ill luck which has been plaguing the British in the race today, for when Bert Hinkley was this morning in the Gloster-Napier to take his navigability test, rather rough, and a rear strut under the pounding of the waves collapsed and the plane settled down on the pylon being held between them by the waves.

Perfect Day for Race. It was an almost perfect day for the race. There was a small crowd on the shore and on the big pier. The reserved seats and the grandstand for Bay Shore is nearly full. From Baltimore and New York a crowd of spectators came away from work. The maneuvers of the navy's seaplanes were piled on the river far from Bay Shore. The ship was completely wrecked. Frank H. Conant of the navy's seaplane, did some perfect work, and five navy pursuit planes through formation flying and two men with parachutes.

Round Lake, N. Y., Oct. 24.—An overturned boat and an empty life preserver caused fear today in the minds of the people of Round Lake, a son of the late John Francis, former United States senator from Austria-Hungary, and his wife, who were drowned in Round Lake. Quick hunting yesterday found the body of the proprietor, John Francis, was accompanied by his wife, L. Wood, and a son, who was also drowned. Arrangements to drag the lake this afternoon.
